PREFACE

Great are the changes that generations have seen and their hands have aided in bringing about. We are heir to the yesterdays that our ancestors developed, and indebted to them for today and for what is hoped for tomorrow.

This Centennial book is an attempt to give an insight into Cisco 1874-1974, though it really began before 1874. A book of this type involves the cooperation, enthusiasm, support and suggestions of many people. It is not easy to try to record history for many facts and ideas must be omitted and many are unknown or are remembered in various ways.

We, the preparers of this book, hope that it serves as a reminder of the past telling how the people lived, while instilling the desire to look forward to another century for the Cisco community, though the future cannot be told. We believe that it will help preserve "happenings" which would soon be lost to the ages. We express our gratitude to everyone and apologize for any omission or untruth.

We would like to express a special "Thank you" to Vera Root for her informative material and many hours of research.

Cisco 1874 - 1974

Cisco started as a farming community and remains as one today, for most of the businesses are farm related. Many of the townspeople commute to other work in Decatur or Monticello. This story of Cisco has tried to reach back through the past 100 years to learn more of our town's history and the events that have shaped it as it is today.

The first white people to arrive in Piatt County found Indians, not dangerous ones, but friendly Delaware, Kickapoo and Potawattamie tribes. Arrowheads and other Indian artifacts have been found throughout the area. On some of the farms are indications of buffalo wallows, as well as areas called "The Dead Sea." Few white people had been in this area before Illinois became a state in 1818, as they had been settling in the southern part first. Settlers began moving into the northern section in 1825.

In 1838, Edward Ater came to the area which is now Willow Branch Township to complete a land purchase made by his father, Thomas Ater. Among those he found here were Emanuel Clover, Michael Dillow, Thomas Henderson, John Moore, William Piatt, James Reber, John Sea, Mr. Shuman, John West and Washington Zinn. Soon Samuel Havelly and the Armsworths came. When Ed Ater arrived, he went to the Clover home to get a night's lodging, but they were all ill with the Ague. He went on to the Reber home, then the John West home, still encountering the Ague. He continued to the James Piatt cabin in Monticello, where the family graciously opened their home to the stranger, although Mr. Piatt was in his last illness with typhoid fever. Peter Croniger came from Ohio in 1839, making the trip in nine days. He drove three horses to a wagon, accompanied by Isaac Faylor. Within a few months he had 130 acres of his land "under fence," using oak rails, had dug a well and built a house.

The early settlers made their homes along streams, shunning the prairies because they believed them unfit for farming, and Willow Branch is prairie. The settlers needed timber for their homes, fuel and barns. The easiest way was to cut the trees for a clearing, build their cabin and use the surrounding cleared area for crops.

A settler brought with him an ax and rifle. With the help of his neighbors he built his cabin, usually 14 to 16 foot square and without glass, nails, hinges, and locks. A fireplace was built in one end, and pelts lined the ceiling. A log was left out along one side and sheets of strong paper, well greased with coon-grease or bear-grease were tacked in place, to serve as windows. Everyone was his own carpenter, and some used considerable ingenuity in the construction of tools, utensils and furniture.

Horse collars were often made of braided husk of corn sewed together. They were easy on the neck of the horse and would last a long while.

Women made nearly all the clothing worn by the family and every home had a card-loom and a spinning wheel. Dresses were made plain with four widths of material in the skirt. The waist was short and sleeves were large and tapered. Many ribbons and bows were worn, but little jewelry. The men wore light colored "jeans" and lindsey woolsey hunting shirts.

Wild meat was plentiful, and small patches of Indian corn were raised and a meal ground to make a coarse but wholesome bread. Johnny cakes and ponies were served for dinner while mush and milk was a favorite supper. The garden furnished roasting ears, pumpkins, beans, squash and potatoes. Coffee and tea were used sparingly while maple sugar was much used and honey was only 5c a lb. Butter and eggs were cheap, and chickens were seen in great numbers around the cabin.

Feeding the chickens in 1909.

The amusements of that day were quite athletic. Dancing was a favorite, along with foot racing, target shooting, jumping and wrestling. Quilting and spinning bees were favorite activities of the women and girls, as well as being practical.

For many years the settlers made no effort to cultivate the prairie, because they thought it was not fertile, since it did not grow trees. The prairie grew grass, often taller than a man's head, and there were prairie fires. Mr. P. C. Young came to Willow Branch Township in 1863 as a four year old. As a child he used to herd cattle on the site of Cisco. When he was a grown man he built a log cabin on the prairie across the road from the present Bud Barnhart home. In those days of log cabins, prairie fires were greatly feared for the home would burn readily and fire spread through the grasses faster than a horse could run. The soil around the cabin was plowed to protect it. Men working in the fields would set fires to burn off an area for themselves and their horses, if a fire occurred. They would place themselves and the horses inside the burned off area for safety.

If the early settlers could see their farm land today, they eyes would probably pop for there have been so many changes. Their early attempts at farming were made under extreme hardship, clearing the forest areas, which meant cultivating around the stumps and on the slopes. As time went along they would try to remove the stumps, which could be dangerous. In the early 1900's James Hendrix lost his sight blasting stumps. Their plowing was done by hand. The corn was cut and shocked, being husked as needed and shelled by hand or small hand mill. Wheat and oats were cut with a scythe, stacked in shocks and threshed by a flail. To go to a mill for grinding was a long trip to Decatur or Danville. To market the grain was a similar trip or one to Chicago by horse and wagon.

The pioneer farmer had to drain his land if he was to use the prairie, for it was a swamp in the rainy season. Some one invented a molelike contraption with a cutting blade that went ahead of the mole which when pulled through the ground made smooth packed runways for water. Thus they were able to drain the prairies, making good farm land. These lasted for years. In the 1880's tile was manufactured and put in for drainage. Drainage ditches are used to help carry the water.

Changes in farming came with new implements, though corn was still husked by hand until the 1930's. Farm wagons were fitted with "bump boards" making an extension to the height, keeping the corn from going over the wagon, when the walking husker pulled the ears of corn from the husk and stalk, and threw them into the wagon. The horses pulling the wagons walked along as though they knew their job. Until the corn dump was invented, the husker had to scoop the corn into the crib. Extra help was usually needed at shucking time, and each fall a number of fellows came from southern Illinois and Kentucky, to help with the work. They were paid by the bushel, and given room and board while they were shucking corn. There was competition as to who would pick the most bushels a day among the fellows. This led to shucking contests. Now we find the mechanical corn picker giving way to the combine sheller, as man gave way to the picker or the horse gave way to the tractor.

Instead of the threshing of the wheat and oats by a flail, the grains began to be cut and bound by a binder, shocked; and threshed by steam powered threshing machines. The community was divided into threshing rings with the gang following from farm to farm. The farmers worked in the field, their wives worked in the kitchen, and the kids had fun. A lavish meal was served at noon, so the saying that someone had "cooked enough for threshers." The straw was made into a stack and used for bedding and feed. Sometimes it was baled. The hay was done in this manner or put in the mow loose. Now wheat and oats are combined.

Piatt County was formed in 1841, because it was too far to go to the county seat in Decatur. It had been a part of Macon County. Willow Branch was known as Liberty Precinct until the townships were organized in 1860. The first supervisor was Elias Hall.

The name of Willow Branch was derived from the fact that early settlers settled near the tributary called "The Branch," and forded the Sangamon River near a large Willow Tree. All were in the same area. This ford is where the Hog Chute Bridge is located.

Other landmarks are Wolf Run and Wild Cat Creek, both tributaries to the north, and Stringtown Lane to the north of the township.

In 1860 before Cisco became a town there was one house on the present town site. It was built by Dr. S. V. Purdy.

As with most towns, Cisco grew where it did because of a railroad. The Monticello Railroad was incorporated in 1861 just prior to the Civil War. The war curtailed most construction for the duration. In 1867 the company secured deeds to the right of way. By 1869 the law permitted Townships without a railroad to vote bonds and assist in building one. The Monticello Company planned to build a railroad from Champaign through Monticello to Decatur, there to join with the Decatur and East St. Louis Line to be completed shortly. However, five years later no track had been laid. A contract was let in March of 1871 but there was difficulty in raising the money. By 1872 this company finished the road from Champaign to Monticello. The line from White Heath to Havana and the in 1873 by the Havana, Mason City, Lincoln and Eastern. For the next several years the road led a precarious existence. It first became a part of the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western and the original plat of Cisco so labels the railroad as the I.B. & W.R.R. (In 1973 it is the New York Central.) Some of the men who worked on the railroad as it went through Cisco boarded with Mrs. Patsy Reardon, mother-in-law of John Jeffords, the harness maker.

Cisco Depot and the Livery Stable.

It was in 1874 that the depot was built with E. F. Dallas the first ticket agent.

Later the line became a part of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific and in 1886 when the latter was falling apart the Illinois Central entered into an agreement with Harriman, who was picking up the pieces at bargain prices. They were looking forward to getting the "Pea Nut Line", so named by James C. Clarks, president of the Illinois Central. Jeffrey, general manager of the Illinois Central had written to President Clarks stating that because the I.C. was losing business to this line that the "Pea Nut Line" was "the most desirable piece of railroad for us to acquire in the Corn belt." The I.C. finally got control in January 1887. Men who worked on this branch called it the "Hack Line." Other names for the line were "Puddle Jumper" and "Old Barney." The name was derived from "Barney Maloy from Cisco, Illinois," an employee of the railroad.

It was April 24, 1874 that the station Cisco was platted. Four men owned the land that cornered up to the center of the town. They got C. D. Moore, the Piatt County Surveyor, to plat the village of Cisco on February 4, 5, 6, and 7 of 1874. These landowners were Hiram Dodge who owned 640 acres to the northwest of the center, E. F. Dallas, who owned 80 acres extending north a half mile from the center of Cisco, Thomas Watson, who owned the 80 acres extending a mile east from the town's center, and Abraham Runkle who owned 40 acres to the southwest.

Recorded in the Piatt County Courthouse at Monticello, Illinois is the original plat of Cisco. Also recorded there in beautiful script is the following:

"Know all these men by these presnt, that we, Hiram Dodge of Watseka, Illinois, E. F. Dallas, Thomas Watson and Abraham Runkle of Piatt County, Illinois have authorized the laying out of the Town of Cisco as described on the annexed plat, certified by the Surveyor of Piatt County, Illinois, and we do hereby relinquish and donate to the use of the public the streets and alleys in said Town, as in said plot specified. In testimony whereof we have set our hands and seals this 24th day of April, A.D. 1874.

Hiram Dodge (seal)
Erastus F. Dallas (seal)
Abraham Runkle (seal)
Thomas Watson (seal)

I. L. Bond, Notary Public in and for said county and state.

April A.D. 1874."

Since these men had no seals they drew a rectangle of "e's" and wrote SEAL inside it.

Original Plat of Cisco

On the plat the surveyor indicated the exact locations where he had stones placed for future measuring.

One should notice that the town was named before the foregoing agreement was signed. There are several stories as to how the town got its name but Mrs. Prudie Huffmaster told Vera Root repeatedly that her father always said the town was named for the mother of Erastus F. Dallas. She was Francisco Dallas, a highly respected woman who always helped others in the community in their hour of need. The last of her given name was used for the town name. Another story has it that it was suggested by one of the men doing the surveying for the railroad. He had surveyed for a town in Nevada for the Union Pacific by that name. You may have heard the story that Cisco in Spanish means "copper" but persons who know Spanish say they never heard of that.

At the time Cisco was platted in 1874 there were 50 persons living on the site.

The first station agent was E. F. Dallas. The next agent was Nannie Moffett, and since she was a woman, men of the village would gather to help unload freight when a train came in. Gabe Davenport came next and about this time Lee McGinnis operated a dray service to haul freight to business houses. When the streets were muddy in the early spring or after a hard rain, or when the roads had deep frozen ruts in winter, Lee's tram had a hard time hauling the freight. King Pattengale came to Cisco in the early 1900's and he served in this capacity for several years.

At that time there were four trains a day that would carry passengers. The arrival of a train was always an attraction and townsfolk went to see who came to town and who left town.

In 1902 the train schedule read as follows:

Trains Pass Cisco

- No. 726 going East..... 8:00 o'clock a.m.
- No. 725 going West..... 9:45 o'clock a.m.
- No. 722 going East..... 4:07 o'clock p.m.
- No. 703 going West..... 9:45 o'clock p.m.

In 1911 the Cisco Telegrapher and Operator was paid $55.00 a month. The fare between Cisco and Clinton, if you went first class, was $1.20 one way. If you went by coach a one way fare was 80c. As autos became more prevalent there were fewer passengers and so passenger service through Cisco was discontinued in 1939. When the service was in operation in the earliest days one bought his ticket at the station but later paid his fare after boarding the train. Train fare between Monticello and Cisco one way was 25c first class and 20c by coach. One way fares between Cisco and Argenta were 20c first class and 15c by coach.

The stations on the railroad branch between White Heath and Decatur were Monticello, Amenia, Cisco, Argenta, Oreana, and Green Switch.

In the year 1943 the Cisco Station Operator was paid 43c an hour. As freight was hauled more and more frequently by truck the job as station agent became a part time one. Small parcels were no longer handled after April 15, 1963 and only carload lots were carried.

Train Time

Sam Berkler, Don Stewart, and Barney Giffin were station agents. Mrs. Greenfield served both Cisco and Argenta for a time. Dale Riggins began here in 1963. He served from 12 to 14 stations using his truck to work from. His reporting headquarters was Decatur.

Village Government and the Town Hall

A copy of the Municipal Code of the Village of Cisco that was revised and adopted on June 4, 1906 tells us of the village officials and ordinances at that time. The officials were: President, six members of the Board of Trustees, Clerk, Treasurer, Marshal of Streets, and Police Magistrate. Other chapters set forth the ordinances on village limits; inspection of flues and chimneys; health department; the corporate seal (the corporate seal of Cisco is circular and says on the outside, "Village of Cisco, Piatt County, Ill." Across the middle it says, "Corporate Seal."); fire limits; concrete sidewalks; finances; streets and alleys; sidewalks and public grounds; railroads; licenses; nuisances; misdemeanors; recovery of fines and penalties. At the time this code was adopted Levi A. Weddle was the Village President and Arburthnot Hugh Lyons was Clerk. The booklet was published August 25, 1906 by the Republican Printing Company of Monticello. Ruby Leach's older sister recalls that she wrote a copy of the ordinances in a new ledger for Bert Lyons when she was in school.

In the Historical Encyclopedia of Illinois and History of Piatt County, Francis Shonkwiler says that in 1899, Jason Simer was President of the Board, King Pattengill was Clerk, S. L. Grove was Commissioner of Highways, A. L. Lyons was Justice of the Peace, and Edward Salsbury was Constable. Those who had served on the County Board to represent Willow Branch Township were Peter Croninger, David Moyer, W. F. Stevenson, Thomas Ater, Thomas Mintun, James Ownby, F. H. McCartney, E. L. Croninger, F. S. Wellepp, W. W. Parish, Chas. Baker, George W. Widick, and Charles T. Parr.

The President and six members of the Board of Trustees were elected and their salaries were set by themselves and were not to be changed for a year. Four trustees and the President would constitute a quorum. If at any meeting a quorum was not present, the President was to direct the Marshall to go for the missing members. Any Board member who had absented himself without just cause such as illness was to be arrested and fined $10 if he refused to attend the meeting. Any trustee so disorderly could be expelled by a two thirds vote of the board.

The Village Marshall was appointed by the President and held office one year. The Police Magistrate was to be elected beginning in the year 1908 and every year thereafter.

Some of these ordinances make interesting reading. Here are some:

"No boy nor any other person shall carelessly or heedlessly cast or throw any stone, brick, brick bat, clod, or other missile from or into any public or private house, street, or other place, nor shall in any wise injure or deface any building, fence or shade tree, or shall meddle with or injure any public well, cistern or pump within said village, under a penalty in each case of not less than one dollar nor more than fifty dollars upon conviction."

Any person who "shall keep, offer for sale or sell, or in any way circulate or distribute any obscene or indecent publication, book, pamphlet, paper, print, picture, model, illustration, cast," shall be fined not less than five dollars nor more than two hundred dollars for each offense.

"Whoever shall purposely, heedlessly, rapidly or immoderately ride or drive any horse, mule, cattle or other like animal, or any team in such manner as to be dangerous to person or property, in said village, may be stopped by any person, and shall be stopped by the village marshal, and shall upon conviction, be fined not less than three dollars not more than fifty dollars for each offense."

"Whoever shall ride or drive any horse, mule, cattle, or the like, or lead the same, or drive any carriage, wagon, cart or vehicle for pleasure or burden, on or across any sidewalk, boulevard or lawn, where there is no regular approach to the same, shall be fined in any sum not less than three dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offense."

No person shall engage in any game, sport or amusement or put up any exhibit that will frighten horses or teams or interfere with persons using the streets or sidewalks. Fine from $1 to $25.

Other ordinances forbade hitching horses to trees, creating a disturbance on a Sunday, doing unnecessary business on Sunday, allowing any "horse, mule, ass, cow, sheep, goat, swine or goose or any like animal to run at large within the limits of said village," nor should any be staked out in any public place.

"It shall be unlawful for any person or firm, or any agent to sell, offer for sale, give away or keep any cigarettes or cigarette paper within the corporate limits of said village, and any person or persons who shall violate this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offense."

Other ordinances of that day concerned stables, pens, ditches, slop, dead animals, barbed wire and hedge fences.

Licenses were required at fifty cents for business establishments, for any show or exhibit other than for home benefit, pool or billiards, drays, hawkers, or peddlers.

One ordinance banned having any amusement open on Sunday including baseball grounds and the fine for disobeying was from three to one hundred dollars.

"It shall be unlawful for any boys or other persons to trespass upon any school property within the village, at any time when there is no school or to loiter about or congregate thereon, under a penalty of not less than two dollars nor more than fifty dollars for each offense."

The above ordinances are still on the books in 1973.

There is no Village Marshall at the present time. Meetings are held on the second Monday of each month at 7:00 P.M. at the Town Hall.

The present Town Hall was built in 1936 by the WPA and Mr. Harry Lyons was foreman on the job. The third WPA project at the time was to take up the brick sidewalks, clean the bricks to use in building the Town Hall and put in concrete sidewalks. The building was to be equipped with steel lockers, chairs, and tables. The second floor was to be used for Village Board meetings and the first floor for a polling place for town and township elections.

During the 1940's the fire engine for the fire district was kept on the first floor. When an election was to be held the fire engine was run out so the first floor could be used as a polling station.

The present Cisco Board is:

The Telford Building

William H. Telford built Cisco's largest store on the northwest corner of Main and Dodge Streets. It was a frame building 124 foot long and 24 foot wide. It had 3 rooms on the first floor. The room to the south took up two-thirds of the building with the remaining one-third divided into 2 rooms.

The second floor of the building was divided into two large halls named Castle Hall and Areli Hall. These could be reached by an enclosed stairway on the east side of the building from Main Street.

There was a loading platform on the west side of the building. Merchandise came to town on the train and a horse and dray would haul it to the loading platform of the store.

Street scene on West Dodge Street.

The building on Dodge Street just west of the restaurant was also destroyed by the 1910 fire. This, at one time, housed the newspaper office and a barber shop.

The Swam Building

Fred Swam built a large brick building of two rooms, two doors north of the bank, in the center of the block on Main Street in 1910. The north room has served as a garage and the electric plant. The south room was a blacksmith's, a movie house, auto sales and a grocery. Clem Colgan used the building from 1947-1965 as an office and warehouse for his seed business. The building is presently owned by the Cisco Co-op Elevator.

In the only frame building left of the early Cisco, next door to the bank, has been a restaurant, a millinery shop, a creamery and bakery, Dr. Rhodes' office and previous and present day barber shop.

Across the street east of the Telford building was the Bank Building. It was built in 1897. It has also been used for a grocery and Post Office, the Cook and Doane electrical business and is presently owned by the Cisco Co-op Elevator.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Cisco village census 1920 (345), 1910 (379), 1900 (360), and Willow Branch Township 1920 (1133), 1910 (1518) and 1900 (1579).

Style change in 1874: "Only recent change in the style of wearing the hair is the addition of the coronet braid. Also, gauze dresses, chatelaine pockets, improvised bracelets, silver mounted fans and sleeveless dresses."

1874: "The railroad question is a national issue — in regard to interstate railroads, to provide cheaper transportation, secure safety and comfort of passengers, reform abuses and promote general efficiency of railroads — "

"The U.S. furnished, in 1897, more than one-half the wheat required by Europe."

Pictures of this building show that wooden planks held up by blocks of wood or tile provided seats on the Main Street and Dodge Street sides of the building. Here the weary could rest or sit and visit.

The Telford building burned in 1910.

The Hitchins Building

G. W. Hitchins rebuilt a one story brick building on the above mentioned site extending about two-thirds as long as the previous Telford Building. A general store, Armsworth's Hardware and our present day antique store have all been located here.

Just north of the Telford on the west side of Main St. there was a small building in which there was a millinery shop and later a grocery and a doctor's office. The Town Hall, which was built as a W.P.A. project, is now located in approximately the same site.

West of the Telford building on Dodge St. was the Opera House. This building was the re-modeled first church built for the Methodist congregation of Cisco. It was bought for $100 in 1899 and moved from the church site to its up town location. This was really used as a community center. This building also burned in the big fire of 1910.

West of the Opera House was a building which had a restaurant and ice cream parlor in it. It burned in 1910.

Main Street, Hotel, Shaff Drug Store and Odd Fellows Building.

The Odd Fellows Building

The Odd Fellows Building was a 2-story brick structure that stood two doors south of the hotel. There were three tall windows on the second floor and above the middle one was a stone inset which said "No. 599 I.O.O.F." About 1920 this building burned.

The W. H. Jones Building

In the early 1890's William H. Jones built a building on the east side of Main street. It as a frame one with a part of it having two stories. It had a roof that extended over a wooden sidewalk for its entire length of 100 feet. Mr. Jones sold paint, carpet, furniture, hardware, tin ware, windmills, stoves, pumps, Oakland and Reo cars, and farm implements.

A large tin shed was on the southeast corner of Main and South Streets and was used by Mr. Jones for implement storage.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones lived in a house behind the store for many years until they built the largest house in the village which still stands today at the south edge of town. We know that Mr. Jones was in business here in 1899 and until after 1915. He sold out and went to Decatur.

About 1920 the Odd Fellows Building burned down and the Jones Building south of it was damaged. Some recall how men on top of the Jones building doused the roof with water to prevent its being destroyed. Boys from the town helped to clean mortar off the bricks of the ruined building so they could be used to rebuild the one used now as a Post Office. The Jones building was torn down in the 1930's.

At one time there was a building between the Jones Building and the corner that now has a service station on it. This house had two rooms, one was a shoe repair and the other a doctor's office. A photographer also used it at one time. The building was torn down.

Runkle Building

South of the railroad tracks and on the southeast corner of Main and South Railroad Streets was a 2-story frame building painted yellow, built in 1874. It was built by Abraham Runkle, one of the original four who donated land for Cisco. The upstairs was reached by an enclosed stairway on the north and it was called Runkle Hall. School was held upstairs and also the Methodist Church started here in 1874.

The brick buiding which replaced the Runkle Building, at first had three rooms on the first floor. Among the various businesses that have been active here are a restaurant, the Post Office and grocery, an implement dealer, a pool hall, a drug store, Weddle and McKinley grocery, and now contains the field office for the state engineers. Wilfred Johnson is the present owner.

The U. S. Post Office

Cisco's first Post Office was in the middle room of the Telford Building. Oscar Harper was the first postmaster and was the second grocer, having bought out E. F. Dallas. Other early postmasters were James St. John, John McGinnis, who walked two and a quarter miles to and from town daily to his home, and John Jeffords. Florence Crandall, niece of John Jeffords, Sr., came to live in his home and assist in the post office. Miss Esther Coay and Miss Goldie Daves were also postmistresses. Mrs. Sam Clover served as postmistress when her husband had a store in the south room of the rebuilt Runkle Building. The Post Office was on the southeast side of the store. When he moved to the Bank Building, the Post Office was located there also. Mable Lyons was assistant postmistress for thirty-two years.

Later the Post Office was in the elevator office on the west side of Main Street. From here it was moved to the Shaff Building which stood between the hotel and Odd Fellows Building. In 1947 the Post Office was moved into the Bank Building. Jim Giesler was postmaster from 1946 to April 15, 1949, when Everett Giesler, Jim's father, became postmaster and Jim took a rural route carrier job. Rural delivery started in 1902. At one time there were two rural routes out of Cisco. Mail carriers were Oscar A. Rinehart, Sam Clover, Simon Gisinger, Harry Lyons, Harry Mintun, Francis Swarts, David Swarts. These routes were later combined into one. Beginning late in March of 1973 — the Cisco rural route is out of Bement, starting and ending there.

Schools

The first schools for children in the country were rural schools. If one has not attended or taught a country school, one can not appreciate them. In the early times the teacher lived in the district or lived with one of the families. The teacher went early, built a fire, swept the floor, carried cobs, coal or wood, cleaned and dusted. Then it was time to start to teach the students. Classes were many, all subjects for all grades represented or alternating some grades each year. It certainly developed independence and initiative.

School was held in 14 or so rural schools but as the population decreased and transportation became easier, these schools were closed and the children were transferred into Cisco.

The first school in Willow Branch Township was taught by Judge Edward Ater, about 1840 in a log schoolhouse on the Willow Branch. Among some of the early teachers at Willow Branch were Robert Barton, J. Hull Brown, Caleb and Riley Tatman, the Suver sisters and Thomas Lamb, Jr. The school was extensively repaired, new seats put in and a well sunk in 1920.

At the Post Office: Mr. Jeffords, Laster Coay, Francis Swarts and Oscar Kinchart.

The Post Office was moved into the rebuilt brick building on the site of the Odd Fellows Building, May 1958. This is a one story structure built by Scott Armsworth.

Oak Grove School

Oak Grove School was among the early rural schools of this area. It was built, 3 miles southeast of Cisco in 1890. Dorr M. Simer received $1340 for teaching there in 1920. In 1935, fourteen students were in attendance. Elaine McCartney and Marjorie McCartney were among the many teachers.

Excelsior school house stood on the south side of Stringtown Lane just 2 miles west of Wild Cat Creek.

Girls' basketball team, 1912-13.

New Union School. Edwin Pilchard (teacher), Mildred McIntosh, Berlyn Brown, Earle McIntosh, Homer Doane, Clifford Weddle.

New Union School was located northeast of town just off Stringtown Lane. In 1898 enrollment was 19 and average attendance was 17. C. W. Briggs was the teacher. Carl Pattengill received $900 for a year of teaching here in 1920. Helen Borchers was among the many who taught here.

Havely School was located 3 miles southwest of town at the edge of the county. It is named for Samuel (Captain) Havely who lived and owned a half a section here. He was an early comer and was in the Mexican War. Elizabeth Reeves and Lois Balding are among the teachers here. This is now the residence of the Slifer family.

Pleasant Ridge School was located just inside Macon County on Stringtown Lane, 3 miles northwest of Cisco. It was built in 1855. This school served hot lunches before it consolidated into Cisco, the teacher being Clarice Cornell Dresback. Margaret Pattengale was also a teacher here. Competitive spelling "bees" were held between country schools. Pleasant Ridge carried home the honors in 1898.

Prospect School was built on the county line four miles northwest of Cisco. In 1911 the old building was moved to the rear of the lot so that school could continue while a new schoolhouse could be erected. The new building was considered quite modern with its new basement. E. O. Martin and his daughters, Geneva and Juanita were teachers here. Lois Ward was the last teacher.

Enterprise School, built in 1873, was situated across from the Enterprise M.E. Church, five miles northeast of Cisco. The building itself cost $750, while the coal house and fences cost $130. Among some of the teachers were: Elizabeth and Bert Reeves, Lola Huisinga and three of the Grethe sisters — Antonia, Jeanetta and Ottaline. Three generations of Kingstons served as school directors. In 1945 this school consolidated and students went to Weldon, Deland and Cisco.

The first school in the village of Cisco is reported to have been a subscription school held in the Runkle Building. This meant that each parent who sent a child made direct arrangements with the teacher for paying for teaching the child. Ada Nogle (Weillepp) was one of the early teachers.

The first schoolhouse in the village was a wooden frame building of one room erected on the site of the present school. A recently found newspaper clipping dated July 31, 1885 says that R. L. Dickerson of Cisco was awarded the contract to build a Cisco school for $1,000. The item says this bid was $10 less than any other bid. It also states that Cisco people were pleased that a local builder got the job.

A 2-story two room school was built on this same site in 1887 and was used until 1900. The second building was moved by using a horse and capstan to take it south on Eldon Street, across the tracks into an area on the west side of Eldon and South Railroad Street (this is north of and behind Larry Edward's house in 1974). Harry Lyons recalls it was used as a horse barn with the blackboards still in it.

In 1900, a brick, 2-story, four room, well lighted, heated by a furnace, and well ventilated building was erected on the same site. The total cost was $6,000. The building was not ready for use when school opened in the fall, and the children attended classes in the Runkle building. The primary grades attended classes in a room on the first floor, and the upper grades in the hall upstairs. The two teachers at this time were Susie Merker and Lillian Grey. Ruby Leach's sister recalls these facts as she started to school that year. She also remembers that the children were taught to write by placing corn kernels over the letters written with chalk on their desks.

Another interesting sidelight concerning this building is that it was built of bricks made in Newburg. Mrs. Dottie Giesler's father owned the brick kiln and the bricks were hauled by team and wagon to Cisco.

Cisco School

Two years of high school were offered in the new brick building and later three years were taught. Students could transfer for the fourth year to the school of their choice. Some went to Weldon, Monticello, Argenta, Decatur and Cerro Gordo. Families had to furnish the student transportation. There were a few car pools, but many were forced to take room and board in the other towns and return home only on weekends.

Wooden board sidewalks were built south of the school. They were raised and were in bridge fashion because water stood so deep.

Alexander taught 1 and 2; Dessie Troxell taught grades 3, 4 and 5; and Faith Garver taught grades 6, 7 and 8. Their salaries ranged from $1,020 to $1,060.50. The Monticello Unit District was formed in 1948. The Havelly School and Enterprise School closed and their children came to town as was earlier done by other country schools.

When the Unit was formed there was one school board for the four grade schools and one high school which included Cisco, White Heath, and Monticello. The Board was to have two members from each of the three participating towns. At the time of its formation the members representing Cisco were Francis Lynch and Lyle McFeeters.

For some years a noon hot lunch program was served in the rented basement of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church that was no longer used as a church but was the property of the Masonic Lodge. The school children were taken next door south to the church at noon to get their lunches.

It was just a quiet little street
 But as I passed that way
 I thought of those who had lived and loved
 And worked there day by day.
 From such simple homelike streets
 Have come leaders who've had their say
 On just such quiet little streets
 Tomorrow's statesmen now play.

The Willow Branch Library

The Cisco Woman's Club began a project of collecting books for a library. Mrs. P. C. Young was president at the time. Mr. Robert Allerton made a grant in 1918 to assist in collecting a nucleus for such a library. The first books collected were housed in Shaff's Drug Store under the care of Mrs. Fred Shaff. She kept the subject before the community until finally the voters of the township voted a 1 $\frac{1}{3}$ mil tax to support a free public library. Then in 1920 the Willow Branch Township Library was organized with directors Mrs. Warren Ater, Mrs. P. C. Young, Mrs. Dillard Bowman, Mrs. Scott Armsworth and H. B. McKinney. Jack Mullins was the first librarian. The first library was on the west side of Main Street, the fourth house from South Street. This had formerly been a dwelling.

A few years later the library was located on the north side of North Street and the second house west of Main Street. Bessie Hitchens served as the second librarian. She served for many years. Some of the other librarians were Irene McKinley, Goldie Cornell and since 1958 Katheryn Sites.

This library became a part of the "Rolling Prairies Library System" in January of 1973. The present library board consists of Sam Clark, Kay B. Drew, Helen Dowdle, Marilyn Mackey, David Swarts, Joyce Slifer and Robert Williams.

The Baptist Church

The Southern Baptists established a church in Cisco in 1951 with fifteen charter members. The first minister was Olen Cooperider, a Sangamon Valley Associational Missionary, who was here for six months. Arthur Sutton served a year, Lester Dean served two years and then Olen Cooperider returned for two years. Gregory Osborne was pastor for ten years. Dale Pease came next for a short stay of several months. Anthony Roy of Deland has also served.

About 1953 to 1955 the attendance ran from 65 to 70 of a membership of 80. Some members moved away or took their membership elsewhere. One of the most joyous occasions was the burning of the mortgage in 1958.

The church closed its doors January, 1974.

The Cumberland Presbyterian Church

The Presbyterians in the eastern part of the country believed the ministers in the churches should be schooled in theology. They required four years of college plus seminary training. They soon realized they did not have enough men so well trained to supply the frontier churches. Other denominations were using untrained men and the Presbyterians decided to do so also; but they would indicate a church with a less trained minister as a Cumberland Church. The word Cumberland was taken from the Cumberland Gap which was the gateway to the West. The Presbyterians built a one room frame building in 1875 that was very similar to the Methodist's. The church was located south of the present school and on the same side of Main Street. A second church that was larger and finer than the first church was built on the same site. The corner stone for it was laid June 27, 1908.

Some of the families that belonged to this church were Rainey, Staats, Mintun, Goken, Coon, Jones, Lyons, Oxley, Clow, Graves, Russell, Reinhart, Coay, Pape, Evey and Prahm.

The building committee for the second church was composed of five members: W. H. Jones, E. McGinnis, Joe Rainey, W. H. Ennis and F. M. Coffin. During the planning for this building the question arose as to whether or not it should have a basement. Some who felt there should not be one pulled away from the church, led by Rev. Tuttle, the pastor. This group held separate services in one of the halls in the Telford Building.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church

Unfortunately the earliest records of this church are lost and only the minutes of the sessions were available. Bert Reeves in his History of Cisco names as ministers of this denomination — Bankston, Tuttle, Hemp and Shaaffer. Since Rev. Tuttle was here during the split of the church in 1908, we presume these other men were early pastors.

Following are the ministers who served this church: H. D. Trickey 1911, G. D. Humphrey 1911-1913, F. L. Gould 1913-1915, George D. Humphrey 1915-1916, M. E. Morse 1917-1918, G. D. Humphrey 1919-1920; (there is no record from March 1920 to April 1924), M. C. Cockrum 1924-1925, J. W. Elder 1926, F. C. Carpenter 1928-1929 (he was married while serving here), F. A. Gageby 1930, Abrim G. Bergen 1931, W. M. Clark 1934-1940, and R. S. Kieser 1940. (He also had the Argenta Presbyterian Church. He was blind and used a seeing-eye dog). In April 1941 the local congregation joined the Argenta Church while Rev. Kieser was still minister.

At a December 1912 service a Jubilee Meeting was held and the paid-off note for $4,000 was burned. In June that year a hail storm damaged some of the church windows. It is interesting to note that in 1917 the minister with a family of four children received $1,200 and the use of the manse for his services.

In 1917-1918, Jeff Ennis, Mrs. Lee Ennis, Opal Ennis, W. H. Jones, Eva Cloud and Charles Hunsley held positions in the church. W. H. Jones was a strong supporter of the Presbyterian Church and since he had a pen of deer at his home — he donated a deer so the ladies of the church could serve venison as well as chicken at their fall chicken fries.

A newspaper clipping for March 1928 tells of the celebration at the Presbyterian Church of a Golden Wedding Celebration for five Cisco couples. Three of these couples who celebrated their Fiftieth Anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mintun, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kistler, and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Coffin. Mr. and Mrs. Simon Gisinger celebrated their fifty-first and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Oxley their sixty-second.

The church was reorganized in 1932 with the following elected to office: John Reed, Harry Lyons, Ray Mills, Mr. Coffin, Mrs. Reed and Mr. Benjamin. The Cisco Cumberland Presbyterian Church joined the Argenta Presbyterian congregation. Perhaps the last services ever held in this church were the funerals of Taylor Coon in 1937 and Lucy Coon in 1939.

About 1942 the building was bought by the Cisco Masonic Lodge No. 965 A.F. & A.M. The son of W. F. Weilepp gave the land to the lodge since it had to be returned to the estate of his father, if no longer used for church purposes. In the late 1940's the school board rented the church basement and carried on a hot lunch program there until the lunch room was built at the school in 1956. The lodge used the building until it was affiliated with the Argenta Masonic Lodge in December 1965.

The Monticello Unit School Board bought the site from the Masons with the understanding that the building was to be removed by the Lodge. The concrete basement floor to the building still remains about two feet under the soil. The site was seeded and added to the school playground.

The Cisco United Methodist Church

The Cisco Methodist Church is the outgrowth of the uniting of two country churches, the Centenary Chapel located three miles southeast of Cisco, and the Pleasant Ridge Church located three miles northwest of the village.

Before the Centenary Chapel was erected in 1865 and '66, services were occasionally conducted by Circuit riding ministers in the homes of Samuel Miles and Felix Watson and in three schoolhouses. After a revival in the Shady Nook School, the Centenary Chapel was built. This church was called Centenary because it was built in the centenary year of Methodism in America.

The Pleasant Ridge Society was organized in the home of Hiram and Rachel Chandler. Its first public services were held in a new barn 2½ miles south of Cisco on land now owned by Opal Coon. Later that same year Pleasant Ridge schoolhouse was built three miles northwest of Cisco and services were held there. Packs of wolves sometimes surrounded the school during Sunday School. Parents told the children the wolves were attracted by their singing. Later the church was erected near the school. It was at first independent, later Presbyterian and finally Methodist due to the Chandler influence.

Early churches were often grouped into circuits so that one minister could conduct services in several communities. Cisco seems to have been in the Friend's Creek Circuit in 1865 through 1867 and for a time in the Cerro Gordo Circuit. It was in the fall of 1874 that the Cisco Circuit included the Centenary and Pleasant Ridge societies, the Wesley Church southwest of Cisco, the Bell Prairie Church near Argenta, which met in the schoolhouse by the same name, and the church at Deland. The Rev. Joseph Winterbottom was the first pastor on this circuit.

The Centenary and Pleasant Ridge Churches united into the Cisco Methodist Church on Nov. 30, 1874. Sunday School was held in the Hall of the Runkle Building. Samuel Miles was the first Sunday School Superintendent.

In the winter of 1874 and 1875 a subscription was started to build a new church. This church was a one story frame building with five single windows on each side and with a bell tower. The building cost about $2,200. It was built on the present site of the church and dedicated on July 4, 1875 with Rev. Horace Reed of Decatur making the dedication address. W. T. Beadles was appointed pastor in 1875. A daughter, Bertha, was born in Cisco during his pastorate here.

Exactly one year after the church was dedicated, on July 4, 1876 a windstorm moved the church on its foundation.

Methodist Parsonage on Main Street, 1897. Cecil Stevenson, Enock Austin, Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Stevenson.

In 1890 a parsonage was built during the ministry of C. R. Carlos. This building is no longer owned by the church and is presently the residence of Ray Hatfield.

During the 1890's there were three church weddings and they were all held at the close of the regular morning service. This was quite unusual at that time for it was customary for a wedding to occur in the home of the bride.

The church membership grew to 200 by 1898 and a larger building was needed. The church building was sold in 1899 and moved to the north side of Dodge Street where it became the Opera House. Although a new building had been the subject of conservation for many years, it was not until Rev. A. D. Moon came to the circuit in 1898 that a movement was started toward getting a bigger facility. Rev. Moon and his co-workers raised $6,018. The building committee consisted of L. A. Melvin, F. S. Weillepp, P. B. Maxheimer, Daniel Weddle and E. L. Croninger. These men traveled to Tolono, Ill., to see a new church just completed. They liked the plans made by C. S. Bainum of Champaign and Richard and Landis of Cerro Gordo got the contract to build the church for $4,965.

M. E. Church, Cisco, Ill.

Second M.E. Church

This second church was erected on the same site as the first one. The corner stone was laid on July 12, 1899 with Rev. W. H. Wilder as presiding elder. Dedication was Dec. 3rd by Bishop C. C. McCabe.

Gifts to the new church included a dozen little red chairs, the corner stone, an office chair, a communion table, and a Bissel Carpet Sweeper.

The second church was much larger and finer than the first church. This one had a basement and to enter the sanctuary one went up either of two sets of steps. There was a separate door at ground level on the north into the basement. One could not get to the basement from inside the church. It was planned this way so when serving a church supper to make money the sanctuary was in no way connected to the room where money was exchanging hands. The building was an L-shaped building with a large bell tower built over the two entry doors. The large church windows were stained glass. There was a hitching rack at the south side of the church yard. A well with a hand pump was located near the northeast corner of the church lot. A gas street light was on the terrace at the northeast corner. Some of our ladies recall pumping and carrying all the pails of water down the steps for their church suppers.

The church had chicken fries which saw many a chicken being eaten. What large kettles were used and how both the men and women worked. Another way money was earned was by having strawberry festivals when the berries were ripe. There is a record of the Cisco Band playing at one in 1900. Bazaars were another way the church ladies helped to defray church expenses.

During an electrical storm in 1910 the church was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. There was no fire fighting equipment available at the time. The Presbyterians graciously invited their sister church to use their basement for their Sunday School and to combine the worship services in their sanctuary.

A building committee for a third church was organized. Members of this committee were Rev. J. C. Enninger, Dr. Pattengill, Charles Croninger, Edward Ater, Walter Miller and Fletcher Irwin. The present red brick building's corner stone was laid in the fall of 1910 and the dedication was in June of 1911 with Rev. T. D. Madden officiating.

Enterprise Church

New carpeting and a Wurlitzer organ (as a memorial to Alice Williams) were added in 1948 to enhance the beauty of the sanctuary. This year of 1948 was noted for seven church weddings.

In November of 1949 the church celebrated its 75th anniversary. At that time a booklet was published entitled, 1847-1949 Seventy-fifth Anniversary, First Methodist Church, Cisco, Ill. A pageant, The Story of Our Church, was written and directed by Mrs. Vera M. Root.

Present United Methodist Church

The present parsonage was built on the southeast corner of North and Eldon streets, across the street from the church in 1920. The land was donated by W. C. (Dick) Reeves.

In 1923-24, Enterprise Church, which was located 5 miles northeast of Cisco closed and brought their membership into the Cisco Church. The Enterprise Church building had been built in 1893-94 on ground given by Hiram Roysse. It was a frame building seating 200 people. The church building was abandoned and finally sold to the Farmer City Christian Church in 1933. Until 1923 Cisco and Enterprise had been on a 2 point circuit. Rev. Harold Thrall was the minister when the churches combined.

In 1937 the people were able to afford to redecorate the sanctuary. In 1943 the choir added dignity to the service by wearing choir robes. During 1944 a nursery to care for small children during the worship service was started. Also that year Rev. Nollsch baptised a class of 24 babies, children and adults and several were received into church membership.

During 1961-63 the church was refurbished extensively and services were held for a short time in the Grade School auditorium. In 1967 the organ was replaced with a new Baldwin Organ.

At the present time Rev. Charles Fradenburgh has been serving since 1971. In 1973 the church kitchen and the room used by the high school young people has been remodelled and refurnished.

Mr. L. A. Melvin served as Sunday School superintendent for 25 years. Many others served in this capacity with the present one being Stanley Mackey.

Over the years activities of the church have included choirs, Christmas programs, Children's Day programs, Bible school, Christmas sings, Epworth League or M.Y.F., Bible study classes, mother daughter banquets, and father-son banquets.

Ordained Ministers from Cisco

Thomas Miles is probably the first man from this vicinity to enter the Christian ministry. Howard Augustus, Seymour Williams, James Ennis, a Mr. Hedges and Reuben Hathaway are others. Burt McIntosh and Winston Burton were the last ones from Cisco.

United Methodist Women Woman's Society of Christian Service

Ladies' Aid Society Woman's Foreign Missionary Society

A Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was organized with sixteen charter members, by Mrs. A. D. Moon, the pastor's wife on May 24, 1900. Mrs. L. A. Melvin was the first president.

In about the same period, a Ladies' Aid Society was also formed. Elected the first treasurer, Mrs. Melvin served until her death. Later, the Woman's Society of Christian Service was formed by combining the two groups. This action was taken at a joint meeting in August 1940.

The 71 charter members desired to "help to develop and support Christian work among women and children around the world; to develop the spiritual life; to study the needs of the world; to help strengthen the local church; improve civic, community and world conditions; to enlist others in this Christian fellowship and secure funds for the activities in the local church and the work undertaken at home and abroad for the establishment of a world Christian community."

The first officers to direct this organization were: president, Hazel Pirtle; first vice president, Gladys Doane; second vice president, Myrtle Whisnant; third vice president, Elma Waggoner; recording secretary, Nellie Wiseman; corresponding secretary, Edna Benjamin; treasurer, Prudie Huffmaster.

Other secretaries of work were Bertha Coffman, Jennie Miller, Ella Guyot, Othella Remmers, Dorothy Mills and Lutie Parr.

The W.S.C.S. members held quiltings, chicken fries, served for the Red Cross, had food stands at farm sales, and held turkey suppers and bazaars for some of their many fund-raising efforts.

The Reverend O. C. Penticoff was serving the Cisco church when the W.S.C.S. was organized.

In October 1973 the Woman's Society of Christian Service name was changed to the United Methodist Women with the following purpose: The organized unit of United Methodist Women shall be a community of women whose PURPOSE is to know God and to experience freedom as whole persons through Jesus Christ; to develop a creative, supportive fellowship; and to expand concepts of mission through participation in the Global Ministries of the church.

Wesleyan Service Guild

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Cisco Methodist Church was organized in January 1946, for women working outside the home and those with young children who found it difficult to attend afternoon meetings, but who wished to be a part of the W.S.C.S.

The first officers were: president, Juetta Hiser; vice president, Mary Carolyn Chapman; secretary, Edna Whisnant; corresponding secretary, Maxine McKinley; treasurer, Vernetta Miller.

In 1954 the name of this group was changed to the "Ruth Circle", and in 1960 this group merged with the main organization and the Ruth Circle became one of four circles of the afternoon W.S.C.S.

The Opera House

The Opera House was the remodelled first Methodist church. It was really used as a community building. There was a stage at the north end of the building. Some of the events held here included Road shows, home talent plays, band concerts and the Community Christmas party. Ruby Leach can still sing a song that she sang in a home talent play given by local people in this Opera House.

Some of the Cisco oldtimers recall a hypnotist who gave a program here. He hypnotized a young woman who lay in the window of the Telford Building until night when she was brought to. A man was hypnotized and his rigid body was placed with his head on one chair and his feet on another with a limestone block placed on his chest. Cain Clow, a strong man of the community, broke the block with a sledge without hurting the subject. Still others were hypnotized in comical situations.

Roads

Stringtown Lane began at the northwest corner of Monticello and extended across the river at Benders Ford, following the section line out of the county to Maroa. It passed Excelsior, New Union and Pleasant Ridge Schools. Some say it was a part of a road extending to Mt. Pulaski. Before there were paved roads, the Old Wabanse Automobile Trail followed Stringtown Lane.

Another old road, though not in complete use today, passed Shady Nook School House and near a brick house (in 1865) belonging to Solomon Ater. Miss Emma Piatt said this was the first brick house built in Piatt county. About one half mile southwest of the brick house, the road crossed a north-south road. In this area, going across Hog Chute Bridge, was the Centenary Methodist Church, Ater Cemetery and a Town Hall building used as a voting place for Willow Branch. Also near here was the tile and brick yard operated by Jim Armsworth in the 1870's and 1880's.

Southwest of here the road branched. One road went by Oak Grove, and on to the county edge — to Dantown and Newburg. The other branch ran through Clover land (just north of Clover Lake) to the section line, and turned west, crossing the present Cisco-Cerro Gordo road and going past the Havelly School.

In February 1898 a news item from the Piatt County Republican says that "It has been years since our roads were in such a muddy condition as they have been in the past two weeks." They had received a large amount of rainfall. Then two weeks later — "Mud prevails everywhere. Ten days ago when the roads were frozen an immense amount of corn was moved, so much in fact that the elevator found difficulty in handling it, but since the moderation in temperature it has been impossible to haul anything." The roads influence the marketing of grain. The days referred to above, found Crocker Elevator Co. buying 35,000 bu. of corn at 24c a bushel that week. Roads were often so bad that wagons and buggies were abandoned.

Willow Branch has had good roads once they won "the battle of the mud." At one time Walter Miller, Charles Doane and Roland Salyers were road commissioners when it took three to take care of the work. They were the commissioners when the grade was first built up to the Sangamon River in 1914.

Clarence "Dutch" Cornell was the first one-man commissioner. After his death, Ace Cornell was commissioner, followed by Jason Ripperdan, Waldo "Rip" Dowdle (17 years.) and Delbert Williams. Rip worked a total of 34 years on Willow Branch roads. Harry "Shine" Shull has helped Rip and Delbert with the road work for many years.

In 1913, Elmer Rainey says the road was so wet north of Cisco he used a four-horse hitch to haul 4 wagon loads of corn a day to the elevator crib south of his present home. He had to scoop the corn off the wagon into the crib. Then in 1914 he helped spread oil — using a four-horse team again. They dragged the roads rather than grading them as they do now, and put just one strip of oil. This was about the first or second year for oil on our roads.

Gypsies were a part of the way of life in the 1800's and early 1900's. One of the places they came to was the Pleasant Ridge School yard. Every summer at least one band would come through the area. They usually were trading horses, asking for hand outs or offering to tell fortunes. Everyone kept their eye on their children and possessions, because of tales of kidnapping and theft. They were often dressed in gaudy colored ragged clothes. They had dark complexions and they traveled in dilapidated wagons pulled by horses in all states of health. The latest gypsies to come to town, camped southeast of town and came by car, truck, etc.

Tramps came to town and country, causing uncomfortable moments for some. The people usually gave them something to eat, some in fear, others for some service and others just gave them the food.

Many peddlers sold through the area, selling this and that. Those who usually came each year were missed if they did not show up.

Cisco Elevators

Cisco has had one to three elevators at all times since it began. In the early 1870's an elevator was built on the east side of Main Street and north of the railroad tracks. A second elevator was built by Mr. Crocker on the west side of Main Street across from the first one in the 1880's. A third one was constructed by Suffern and Hunt at the west edge of town, south of the railroad tracks.

E. F. Dallas was a grain merchant in the late 1870's. A grain receipt that has no name of the elevator as a heading and dated September 8th, 1879 shows that the weigher, H. T. Morrison paid to Joseph Parr 18c a bushel for 3/100 bushels of white oats weighed on a Fairbanks Standard Scales at Cisco, Illinois.

Shellabarger Elevators

An elevator was built on the west side of Main Street in the 1880's by a Mr. Crocker. Percy Jones was associated with this elevator. In the Piatt County Republican, February 10, 1898, it was stated, "The Crocker Elevator Company bought 35,000 bushel of corn at 24c/bu. last week." Later another elevator was built on this site by the Shellabarger Elevator Company. During the earlier years of this elevator, Bud Weddle, an employee, met a tragic death when his clothing caught in a swiftly turning shaft. Scott Armsworth managed it until he became the manager of the Cisco Farmers' Elevator. Stephen Minton succeeded him, followed by William Kile, Reed Barnhart, and W. E. Miller. In the late twenties the Evans Elevator Co. bought Shellabarger elevator. Walter Miller was a manager, followed by Albert (Tom) Leach. In 1930 the elevator burned and Tom was transferred to Oreana by Evans.

Suffern and Hunt Elevator

In the early 1900's Suffern and Hunt erected an elevator at the west edge of town just south of the railroad tracks. The first manager was a Mr. Malone. The A and O Grain Company used it for grain storage and sold it to the Cisco Co-op in 1954.

About 1882 F. S. Weilepp came from Forsyth and bought grain for Day Sons and Company. In 1886, John Frantz, who came to Willow Branch Township five years earlier, became a Cisco lumber, coal, and grain dealer. In 1889 his son, Charles O. Frantz, went into partnership with his father.

In 1889 F. S. Weilepp bought the interest of Day Sons and Company in connection with Mahlon Croninger. Mr. Weilepp was regarded as one of the outstanding grain dealers in this part of the country. Mr. Weilepp was a stockholder in the Croninger Bank. He built the house on the northwest corner of Dodge and Eldon Streets and it was considered one of the finest homes of the time.

The F. S. Weilepp Grain Company sold out to the Farmers' Elevator Company in 1908. At that time the officers were: L. A. Melvin, president; E. E. Dallas, secretary; C. L. Croninger, Edward Ater, W. E. McCartney, Edward Reeser, and C. T. Parr. The Farmers' Elevator leased the Suffern and Hunt Elevator in 1910 at $50 a month in order to provide more handling and storage room. In 1912 they purchased the coal business from Cisco Lumber Company. This firm re-organized in December 1918 to become Cisco Co-operative Grain Company.

The first manager of the Farmers' Elevator was J. T. Holderman. He was succeeded by W. S. (Scott) Armsworth in 1909. who served until 1930. Earl Steele was manager from 1930 until 1943. The Company bought the Home Oil Company in 1940 and Sangamon Oil Company, both from W. S. (Scott) Armsworth. In 1950 the company became jobbers for Marathon Petroleum Products. Truck drivers for this operation were H. G. (Pete) Benjamin who served until 1944 when Eldon Webb took over until 1973 when Greg Nolan became the driver.

There was a demand for more storage so the board of directors erected a 22,000 bushel tank in 1940. A new brick office for the elevator was built in 1941 at the east end of Dodge Street, facing Main Street. The board of directors at that time were C. T. Parr, president, J. H. Barnhart, secretary, Charles Olson, J. W. McCollister, and P. C. Young.

Three more storage tanks were built in 1950 and two more in 1954, making a total capacity of 185,000 bushels. That same year, 1954, the company bought the elevator on the west side of town from A and O Grain Company. This elevator and its contents were destroyed by fire on the night of September 8, 1954. Luckily there was no loss sustained as it was completely covered by insurance. In 1955 the company became a representative of the A. E. Staley Company by adding commercial feeds to their line of products.

A new elevator was constructed on the west side of Main Street in 1956. A steel Butler flat storage warehouse was built in 1957. It was 60 feet wide, 120 feet long with 20 foot side walls. A new concrete elevator of 250,000 bushel capacity replaced the original frame building in 1964. A tract of land was purchased from R. H. Oplinger at the east edge of town and two large storage warehouses were built on it. In 1965 the government bins on this land were bought which gave the company a total storage of 1,150,000 bushels.

The years 1950 to 1965 embrace the major expansion in storage. The directors holding office during these fifteen years were Loren Pattengill, Lawrence Coon, Ralph Rannebarger, Warren Ater, Bert Huisinga, Frances Edwards, Donald Whisnant and Gerald Miller. In 1958 the elevator celebrated its Golden Anniversary with a dinner for all stockholders and wives at Potrafka's Cedar Knolls in Oreana.

The Argenta elevator was bought September 15, 1972. This gave the Cisco Co-operative Grain Company an additional 100,000 bushel capacity. The company sells small seeds such as beans, clover, and corn. They also mix and dry seeds at the Argenta facility. They continue to handle Marathon Products.

The Board of Directors in 1974 are Dale Huisinga, president, D. James Burns, secretary, Keith Westerman, Don Padgett, Melvin Gulley, and Gerald Hiser.

Managers for the Cisco Co-operative Grain Company are as follows: W. S. Armsworth 1909-1930, Earl J. Steele 1930-1943, Walter Fisher 1943 to August 1944, John Witlow 1944 to summer 1962, Merle Chapman 1962-1967, Grant Appell 1967-1971, William (Bill) Sago 1971-

The bookkeeper from 1926-67 was Hildred Webb who still helps out. Kay Drew became bookkeeper in 1967 and has been office manager since 1971. Part time personnel are Joyce Bennett and Mikki Burns. Every year a dinner is held at the annual meeting for the stockholders.

The Stockyards and The Cisco Shipping Association

Early settlers devoted much time and attention to cattle and hog raising, so with the coming of the railroad, stockyards were developed. The stockyards were east of Main Street beside the railroad. In the April 25, 1905 Cisco Press a news item reads, "Fourteen cars of stock were shipped from here Sunday. J. N. Dighton had 5 cars of hogs and 1 of cattle; James Hendrix had 5 cars of cattle and 1 of hogs and Mack Ashton had 1 car of cattle and 1 of hogs. An extra train was sent from Champaign to get the stock."

In W. S. Armsworth's annual report in 1921 he states that since August 1, 1920 he has shipped out 16 cars of livestock. This is a total of 111 hogs, 59 cattle and 29 sheep. He paid farmers consigning this stock $25,500. The average cost of shipping was 63c per cwt.

Blacksmiths

On the southeast corner of Main and South Streets, a buggy builder had a shop in the early days of Cisco.

Mr. John Jeffords had a harness making business on the balcony of the Opera House. It too, was destroyed by the fire of 1910. Other harness makers were Mr. Bigalow, and Mr. Ralph Allman.

On the east side of Main Street there was a blacksmith shop until in the 1940's. Cisco's first blacksmith, James Glick had his shop on the south side of town. Later Neal Caldwell, brother to Dr. Caldwell of Syrup of Pepsin fame, was in with Mr. Glick. In the 1890's Dan Cripe had his shop followed by James Sullivan and then George Hitchins. The last blacksmiths to use this shop were James and Wilmer Clifton who lost it in a fire in the 1940's.

There was another blacksmith shop in the village in the 1890's besides Dan Cripe's. In the second block east of the bank, L. A. (Tebe) Weddle ran a blacksmith shop for many years.

Around 1910 Jason Vaught had a smithy in the south room of the Swam Building. Mr. Vaught was expert at shoeing race horses and he did a good business for there were race tracks in both Monticello and Decatur. Outside of the south wall there were originally rings for tying up horses while awaiting service.

Cisco blacksmiths did a fine business about the turn of the century because the means of transportation used then was the horse and buggy. At that time the farm machinery was pulled by horses. In the winter when the roads were rough the farmers needed well shod teams so they would bring them to town. Sometimes business was so brisk that one had to wait for his turn a half day.

One hundred seventy-five feet of hitchrack was erected, west of Main Street, in the north part of town in 1902. This was greatly needed because the racks to the south did not nearly supply the demand on "busy days".

A village watering trough was located on the south side of Dodge Street and across from the Cisco Press Office. Water was pumped for this tank by a windmill located south of the railroad tracks on Eldon Street. (In 1974 the windmill would have been just north of Larry Edward's home.) At the turn of the century when most Cisco residents had had horses and buggies for transportation, and some even had cows, they took their animals to the village tank to water them. Young boys often earned a little money by hiring out to widows or others to perform this chore.

As a small boy David Swarts recalls that his grandfather led the cow and David led the calf to the watering trough daily and that he had a special fondness for his calf. One day the butcher, Shively, bargained with the grandfather to sell him the calf. David felt very sorry to lose it. Sometime later Mr. Shively offered some weiners as a treat to David but the boy refused them for he was sure they were made from his calf.

In later years the trough was filled by the town pump located at Dodge and Main Streets.

Livery, Sale Barn, and view of the town.

Livery Stable

A livery stable was located to the west of and behind the Runkle Building on South Railroad Street. Two services were offered. The "Tie In" service tied your horse inside the building leaving it hitched to the buggy. The "Feed" service included unhitching your horse, putting it in a stall and feeding it at noon. Owners of the stable included William Mintun and John Luker, who was the last one. The stable burned in the 1920's and was never rebuilt as by this time the car was replacing the horse.

Boarding Houses and The Hotel

Mrs. Patsy Reardon, mother-in-law to John Jeffords, the harness maker boarded some of the men putting in the railroad in 1873. About 1897 Mrs. Peter Stuckey, who lived on the southeast corner of North and Main Streets, ran a boarding house.

A hotel was built at the southeast corner of the intersection of Main and Ellis Streets, possibly by Samuel Nogel since he was the first to operate it. Mrs. Patrick Hassett ran it next while her husband was a section foreman. In 1887 Edward Clow operated it until he sold to Colonel and Mrs. Ayers. They were in operation before 1899. When four of their patrons, including Ernest Croninger and Dr. Pattengill, went to board with Mrs. Peter Stuckey it made quite a decrease in the income of the hotel and they sold out to

Mrs. Sarah Higgins who was the last to run a Cisco Hotel. Carpenters stayed there while they were rebuilding the Shellabarger elevator.

When Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Briggs bought the hotel they ran it as a restaurant for twenty-five years. After the death of her husband Perry, Mrs. Briggs ran it several more years then sold out to Mr. and Mrs. Stiltman. The last owners were Mr. and Mrs. Leischer who ran it a short time and went out of business in 1972 and have been using it as a residence since then.

M. Croninger Bank

The bank building was built in 1897 by Mahlon Croninger. F. S. Weilepp was a principal stockholder as were C. L. Croninger, Nellie Pattengill, William Dighton and H. L. Timmons. Ernest Croninger was cashier until his health broke, then he looked after his father's farming interests and his brother Charles succeeded him at the bank. In 1911 the bank was organized as a state bank called "Croninger State Bank of Cisco." In 1914 C. L. Croninger retired from the bank presidency and E. O. Martin of Weldon filled the vacancy; Charles Doane, vice-president and Bernard Pattengale, asst. cashier. In 1917 capital stock was $50,000; deposits $175,000; loans $200,000. In 1911 Bruce Rinehart became cashier until 1916 when he returned to a Deland bank where he had been previous to coming to Cisco. Thomas Hardin became a cashier then. After Martin ran the bank for a few years, John Reed became cashier. Some of the bank directors were E. V. Rannebarger, Mack Ashton, E. A. Ater and Charles Parr. Others associated with the bank over the years were Jon Rank, Herbert Ridgely, Ira McCarty and Mrs. Hildred Webb.

Croninger Bank

Sometime in the 1920's there was an attempted bank robbery. The bank was running low on cash and ordered a shipment to be sent out from Decatur on the evening train. However, the shipment went on to Champaign. Since the money was not delivered, the Cisco bank ordered another shipment the next day and both shipments arrived the same day in Cisco.

Behind the bank was the telephone office building, which in those days required a local operator. Simon Gisinger served as night operator. Mr. Gisinger's son Ancil, better known as "Pop," tells the following story of that night.

Ancil lived next door to his father Simon. Late in the night Ancil's wife was awakened by a bang. She roused her husband who had not heard the noise. Shortly he heard a bang too, went to the window and looked toward town but could see nothing. There was a third bang. So he dressed, grabbed a dash-board lantern and went next door to see if his mother had been disturbed. When he got on her front porch he realized she had not heard it, so he decided to see if his dad was alright. When he got to Dr. Pattengill's corner he saw four or five men. He saw Dewey and Perry Briggs fire a gun up in the air. The streets were torn up at this time because drainage tile were being put in. He saw Dunkel, the barber, standing in the doorway to the barber shop. When the men saw Ancil start across the street they called to him that they feared a robbery. Thinking only of his father, he kept on going. He could see the glass in the windows of the bank had been blown out. The explosion had awakened Simon who had been sleeping in the bedroom which was on the north side of the telephone office. He had hurried to the window toward the bank and had stubbed his toe on the swivel chair used by the switch board operator. A voice called in to him to get back to bed and stay quiet or they would shoot him. When Ancil arrived, he found his father in bed and scared to death. When he tried to call the sheriff his hands shook so that his son had to do it. It was about 4:00 A.M. by this time. The robbers had not been successful in blowing the safe open as there was a time lock on the bottom of the door. It was pried open the next morning with crowbars and each pry brought a pop from the nitroglycerine and smoke. The robbers had tried to blow the bank's vault door open with nitroglycerine.

The robbers made their getaway by stealing Will Jefford's Buick from the garage. This car didn't run far so they stole an Essex belonging to Mayor Bud Kistler. It was found abandoned in Champaign.

No one was ever convicted of the attempt to rob the bank or steal the cars. Simon Gisinger thought he recognized the voice that ordered him to stay quiet but he never revealed a name to anyone. Years later a man caught on another charge claimed that Singer Sewing machine salesmen were in on it. Ancil says he believes there were at least four men in the attempt.

The bank closed in 1927 and did not reopen.

—+— Lights

An electric light plant was installed by Mr. Swam in the north room of his building and it gave Cisco its first electric lights in 1915. The plant consisted of wet batteries that were charged by a two-cylinder engine. This engine was built by the International Harvester Company and ran on coal oil (kerosene). Mr. Swam went broke when he could not pay for his electric plant and Frank Coffman bought him out.

Ancil Gisinger recalls that it was a German engineer who taught him how to operate the electric plant. At the time his plant could supply all the needs for there were few electrical fixtures that required more than one bulb. Most rooms were lighted by a single bulb at the end of a long cord suspended from the ceiling. At the time Simon Gisinger ran the plant the engine was started at dusk and ran until 11:00 P.M. The wet batteries would produce enough current for overnight.

When homes began using electric washing machines and electric irons the power plant was run on Monday and Tuesday mornings. When Scott Armstrong sold the plant to the Illinois Power Company in 1927 they brought in electricity by high line from Cerro Gordo.

—+— Telephone Exchange

On July 23, 1897 the telephone opened in Cisco. By January 1898 the telephone rage had struck Cisco. Some half dozen phones had been put in by private individuals between their places of business and residence. Then as now weather could cause a disruption of service. In a January 13, 1898 Piatt County Republican it notes that "Telephone lines between Decatur and this point are down."

A telephone system was installed in Cisco in 1900. An exchange building was erected to the east of the bank building. W. H. Jones had the first telephone installed. Switchboard operators were Pearl Weddle and Belle Mintun. Other operators were Audra and Edith Weddle, Grace Gisinger, Kathryn Widick, Bernice Clow, Hazel Pirtle, Ruby Leach, Wanda Guyot, and Ruth Leach. Pay for operators in 1928 was 9c an hour and it was raised to about 12¹/₂c about 1932.

James Duddleson was the first manager, followed by Simon Gisinger who, also, acted as night operator. Ed Brown was the next manager. The system was sold in 1925 to L. J. Wylie of the Macon County Telephone Company of Decatur. It was later sold to the Illinois Commercial Telephone Company who in turn sold it to the General Telephone Company of Illinois. Dottie Giesler began working at the telephone office in 1922 and continued to work there until dial phones were installed in 1954. Long distance dialing began in 1964. Since 1954 there has been no need for a telephone office and the building has been torn down.

Water System

About 1919-20 a large storm sewer was laid in from the south side of town branching to the east and west. These were then directed north. The west branch turned back east a little north of the Methodist Church to go back to Main Street and north. Though we still have water this was a great improvement.

In 1950 a contract was let to W. L. Hall for the waterworks system and the construction was done in 1950-51. Before that water had been from private wells and cisterns, or the town well.

The Cisco Press

The building on Dodge Street just west of the restaurant was a room with a barber chair in the front and the press for the "Cisco Press" toward the back. This was a weekly newspaper started by W. W. Austin about 1902. The subscription rate was $1.00 per year. Some interesting things about the town can be learned from the paper. Copied from an April 28, 1905 paper are the following items:

A full line of curry combs and brushes at J. Jeffords. John Dighton, Jr., and Ed Moffitt of Monticello were here Sunday shipping cattle and hogs for Mr. Dighton.

For Sale: Well equipped blacksmith shop in thriving Illinois town. Is a money maker and will stand investigation. Price is right. Address, "Blacksmith" in care of PRESS, Cisco, Ill.

The Cisco Index

An even earlier paper was printed in 1902. It consisted of four pages, was published on the 15th of each month and a subscription was 25c a year. Its motto was "Published in the Interest of Cisco and Its People". The publisher was W. H. Jones. The copy reviewed here is for April 15, 1902.

It gave the scheduled services for the Methodist and Cumberland Presbyterian Churches and the lodge meetings as listed under the discussion of the Telford Building.

Under a section called "Some Happenings" some of the people mentioned are William Marlowe, J. H. Reeves, Frank Donovan, Mrs. F. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hinson, R. E. Staats, P. B. Maxheimer, Mrs. Best, Norah and Pearl Parish. Other items under the same heading are:

Simon Gisinger has been having his restaurant repaired.

Saturday is a school election. The ladies have a vote.

A big assortment of bulk garden seeds at W. H. Jones & Co.

F. M. Arnold was in Normal part of the week buying nursery stock.

Aaron Goodale has moved his barber shop into the vacant Russel building.

The I.O.O.F. are painting and papering the inside of their store building.

James Mintun has begun the erection of a four room dwelling for L. A. Weddle.

L. E. Stuckey has purchased the lots just north of the school building of S. Hinson and will erect a nice two story residence in the near future. (This is where Harry Lyons lives in 1974).

The copy of "The Cisco Index" from which this was taken belongs to Lucia Wilkin. It did belong to her aunt Mabel Lyons.

"The Cisco Review" was run by Hanson Andrews.

Hardware Stores

Walker and Carter were the first hardware dealers in Cisco. E. W. Rinehart was an early hardware dealer but where the business located seems to be unknown at this time, but it might have been in the two story part of the Jones Building. The following is a copy concerning him found in DeWitt and Piatt County, Illinois published in "DeWitt and Piatt County, Ill."

"E. W. Rinehart commands the best trade in Cisco, Piatt County, in the line of goods in which he deals. He handles hardware, queensware, and furniture, and his sales average

Armsworth Hardware Store

$10,000 to $12,000 per annum. He carries stock worth about $3,000 and occupies a building 40' by 50' in dimensions, favorably located and tastefully arranged. Mr. Rinehart began business in 1880 at his present stand, which has become widely known as a place in which goods can be obtained and courteous and honorable treatment always received. He came to Cisco from Iowa. He was born December 3, 1858 in Ross County, Ohio.

Bill Jeffords, son of the harness maker, John Jeffords, had a hardware store on the north side of Dodge Street and immediately west of the Hitchins Building. However, there was a vacant lot between the two buildings. Bill had his wares to the front of the building and his father had his harness making to the back of the building. It is believed that it was the Jeffords who rebuilt this building after the fire. Russell Pheneas managed a hardware store here called "Cisco Mercantile Co." for the Midland Lumber Company from 1928-1931. For a time Albert Miller ran such a store. The Parish Brothers had a hardware business for a time in the south room of the Runkle's Building.

About 1942 Scott Armsworth started a hardware store here. He passed away in 1943 and his son Bill was in the service at that time, so Bill's wife, Betty and Bill's mother, Effie Armsworth ran the business until Bill returned in 1946. He ran it as a hardware store for years and later added electrical appliances. He was a good business man and did a good business here but moved it to Monticello in 1965.

A number of people ran johnny backs or drays at Cisco — Preston Reed, Harry "Mad" Walker, George Scoles, Bur Rinehart, Elwin Eubanks, Lee McGinnis, John Gosset and John School.

Helen Dowdle, "Jap" Phillips and "Shine" Shull with the Implement Co. in 1939.

Cisco Implement Company: Wilmer C. Clifton, Harry Shull, Pauline Wangler, Keith Forcum (mgr.), Basil Wattles, Dale Wolfe, Jack Clifton.

The Implement Business

In the 1890's A. H. (Bert) Lyons and Charley Lyons had an implement business in a building that stood on the southwest corner of Main and North Streets. In 1899 the Parish Brothers Implement Store was on the west side of south Main Street south of the Runkle's Building. They advertised as selling wagons, buggies, hardware, tinware, stoves, wind mills, pumps and oil. After several years they migrated to Idaho along with several other families from Cisco.

W. H. Jones sold all kinds of agricultural implements at his store on the east side of Main Street. He sold out to Fred McIntosh, who was bought out by Orville Ennis and James Heath. In a few years this partnership dissolved, Jim Heath going to Monticello, and Orville Ennis moving to Canada.

In the late 1920's Walter Miller, Albert Miller, Scott Armsworth and Charlie Olson started a hardware and implement store on the north side of Dodge Street, where the Fire Department and American Legion are now. Later this store was purchased by the Midland Co. and managed by Russel Pheneas. It was sold to Howard Clodfelter and managed by Keith Forcum. Lloyd Jones purchased the business, but never operated it. He sold it to Don Ater and Harold McIntyre. After a few years they sold out to Lyle McPheeters, who sold international farm equipment. Then he moved his business to his new store at Monticello.

Restaurants and Ice Cream Parlors

West of the Opera House there was a restaurant and ice cream parlor about 1900, run by Phillip Gisinger. He sold homemade ice cream that he made in five gallon freezers cranked by hand. Later Mrs. Braden and her son-in-law, Mr. Wycoff, had a restaurant here. They bought their ice cream in large freezers. Some recall the ice cream parlor furniture with the twisted metal legs.

According to an advertisement in the 1902 newspaper, The Cisco Press, Bert Rankin ran a "Restaurant and Confectionary." (This is the way confectionery was spelled in all advertisements). His advertisement read, "I carry a complete line of good fresh candy. HOT LUNCH AT ALL HOURS. Decatur Ice Cream made by Morris Candy Co., also first-class Candies. I also have a Barber Chair in connection with my restaurant. Yours for a share of your trade. Bert Rankin, Cisco, Illinois."

Another restaurant location was in the north room of the building recently occupied by McKinley's Store. Tom W. Creekmur had "The Depot Restaurant" in the Runkle Building in 1902 and he advertised in The Cisco Press as follows: "LADIES AND GENTLEMEN. We are prepared to wait on our customers in the best of style. We have placed in some nice clean stock of Candies and Cigars. We are also prepared to serve Ice Cream in many ways. Our Soda Fountain is in good shape. Give us a call. DEPOT RESTAURANT. T. W. Creekmur, Mgr., Cisco, Illinois."

Clarence Cornell operated a restaurant in this same location. So did Phillip Gisinger, Frank Lyons, Cy Dare, and in 1929-30 Herman and Jennie Rose had such a business.

Henry Burkler had another restaurant located a door north of the bank, in the building that is a barber shop in 1974.

Drug Stores

Mr. J. E. Hamilton was the first druggist. Jesse Miles was a druggist for several years. A wooden building south of the hotel was John Shaff's Drug Store with Dr. Pattengill's office in rooms at the back of the store. When John Shaff left to go to medical school his brother Fred took over the drug store. When the new big brick building across the street was completed, Fred moved into the middle room. Aileen Rannebarger recalls a very fine marble soda fountain in this store. Fred Shaif died in 1942. His was Cisco's last drug store. Some drug items were carried in both the Weddle and Don McKinley general stores.

On South Main Street

Stores

In 1885, Theodore Ivens started a business with a stock of $3,000 of general merchandise. His two brothers, Ira and Aaron, were associated with him — also a Mr. Wilhoit. In a few years their stock had increased to between $7,000 and $8,000 in value. They sold dry goods, carpet, groceries, boots, shoes, etc. They did an excellent business and had a reputation for financial integrity. Their trade amounted to from $25,000 to $30,000 annually.

Some of the other store keepers were Mr. Slate, Wash Havelly, A. W. Scott, Ed Coffman, Dan Weddle, Weddie & Ed Stuckey, E. E. Dallas, Mart Osborn, Harvey Robbins, Mr. Loveless, Loton Williams, G. W. Hitchens and son Clarence. After this followed Wayne Coon, Elmer Dallas, Barnhart & Leach, then briefly Frank Lyons.

Mrs. Aileen Rannebarger recalls that at the opening of the G. W. Hitchens store souvenirs were given away. Each person was presented with a two-inch square box that contained a Beich's chocolate candy. She was also impressed with the spaciousness of the store. At one time Elmer Dallas gave away numbered tickets with purchases during the week; then on Saturday night a lucky number would be drawn and the person holding a ticket with that number received some dishes.

In 1928 Sam Clover had a grocery store in the empty bank building. His wife ran the Post Office there at the same time. E. Lee "Skinny" McGinnis ran a grocery in the south side of the Swan building. Wilmer Clifton worked for him. They made grocery deliveries in a Model T Ford. In the south part of town Bill Wheeler had a grocery store. Some recall that a child could buy the most candy for a penny at this store and that he sold brown sugar (which was a rarity at that time).

Peter Stuckey, father to George and Ed Stuckey, had a meat market in Cisco's early days in the room farthest north in the Telford Building. He was followed in the same location by a Mr. Russell. Mr. Shively had his meat market for a time in a small building south of the re-built Runkle building, in a room which one entered from a door on South Railroad Street. Mr. Stillabower also had a meat market in a small building west of Main Street on the north side of South Street. Later on meats were sold in the general stores.

E. E. Dallas store in the corner of Dodge and Main.

Shoe Repairman

About 1900 Joe Miller had a shoe repair shop in his home on Main Street. Mr. Bigelow, father-in-law to Dr. Capps, had a shoe repair shop in the north end of the Jones Building. Ralph Allman was about the last shoe repairman or cobbler in Cisco.

Fire Department

Reporting a fire in the early 1920's was a matter of calling the local operator at the telephone office. She would then open the window and ring a bell that was attached to a pole outside the window. This alerted all the town people. Persons in the country were alerted by a continuous ring of the phones along the lines. If the fire was at night the operator would call each home where there was a young man able to fight the fire.

While someone went to the telephone office to learn the location of the fire, others were busy getting the chemical wagon out of the Cisco garage. The chemical was a long tank set on a single axle. At the front of the tank were two long bars which ended in a T shape. This enabled two men to hold onto it and pull the wagon while other men pushed. On top of the tank was a fire basket that held buckets for the men to use. There was also a bottle which held the chemicals of acid and soda attached to the tank.

If the fire was in town the wagon was usually pulled by hand to the fire, but if it was in the country, men would hold onto the handle and crawl onto the back of a car or truck and pull the wagon to the fire. The vehicle was limited to a speed of 10 to 15 miles per hour because of the swaying of the tank. Later the tank was put onto a two axle cart which helped in transporting it.

When they arrived at the fire a bottle of acid and soda was broken and poured into the tankful of water. The chemical reaction caused pressure to build in the tank. When the gauge indicated that the pressure was high enough the hoses were used.

Because of the slow speed the chemical wagon was forced to travel, many fires were beyond control before the firemen arrived.

John Whitlow, Dewey Briggs, Loren Pattengill, Eugene Conner, and Harold McKinney.

In 1947 the Cisco Volunteer Fire Department was formed with its main object to be to protect the Cisco Fire District against losses by fire. Three trustees were named to govern the business of the district. They were Loren Pattengill, J. D. Briggs, and Harold McKinney.

Several men were the first members of the department. Monthly meetings were held to give instructions on fire fighting and how to use the fire equipment. William Armsworth was selected as the first fire chief. In June of 1947 a new fire truck was purchased. A group of men made the trip to Saginaw, Michigan and drove the truck to Cisco. It was an International KBC Chassis with a pump, tank, hoses, and other accessories. This first truck and other equipment were housed in the Town Hall.

In April of 1950 an auxiliary pump was mounted on the rear of the Fire Truck to pump water from a pond or cistern into the truck. It also would pump water out of the truck which made it a more versatile unit of this piece of equipment.

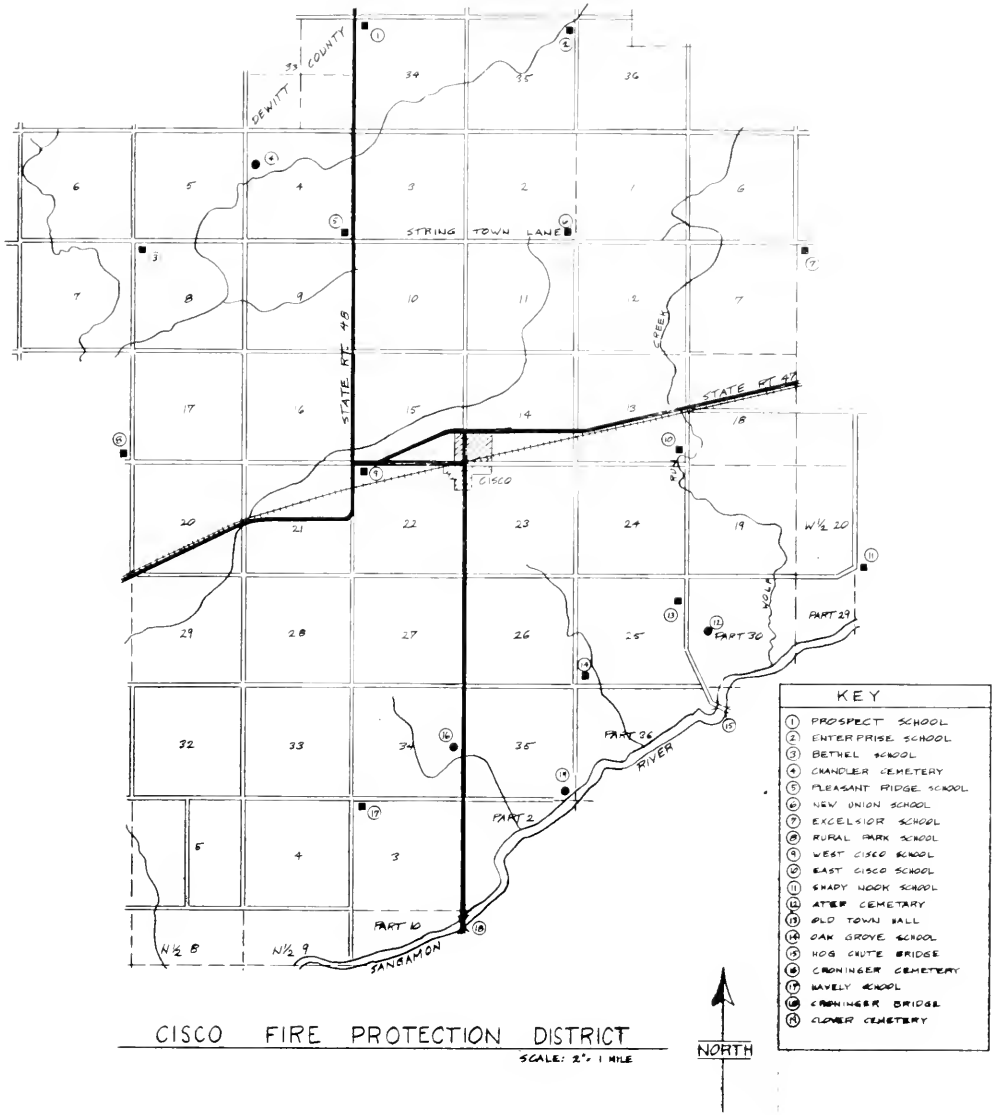

As the Fire District grew in resources and equipment, a larger place was needed to house the department's equipment. In February of 1954, the west part of the building, belonging to the McFeeters Imp. Co. was purchased and reconditioned to serve the department as the Fire House.

Other trustees were A. B. Weddle, Eugene Conner, Thomas Edwards, Roger Briggs, Ron Reeves and Jack Drew.

By 1957 the Fire Department needed another Fire Truck to supplement the one they had, so in 1957 an International 190 was purchased. It was equipped with a front mounted pump and this allowed the truck to move at the same time it was pumping water. They were continually acquiring new equipment which was needed at the fires and it was transported in a van purchased in 1960. This van was nicknamed the "disaster wagon" and to some it was a disaster to try to drive it. In 1966 a 1000 gallon tank truck (a 600 Ford chassis) was purchased to help supply water to the pumper trucks when they were at a fire and the water supply was short. It also is equipped with an auxiliary pump and could serve as a pumper in an emergency situation.

In 1970 the "disaster wagon" was replaced by a 1970 Ford Van. It was equipped with a siren, flashing lights, and a loud speaker to use to give instructions at a fire. A resuscitator was purchased by this time, to be used to help supply oxygen to people overcome by smoke, a person who is strangling or a heart attack victim and has been used several times.

The firemen have contributed to other community activities, helping support the Boy Scouts, and helping to finance a high school boy from the Cisco community to attend Boys State several times. A meeting is held once each month for instruction of how to use the equipment and for keeping the fire equipment in good working order.

Doctors

Before the town of Cisco existed there were doctors in this vicinity. In the 1850's a Dr. Foster lived three miles southwest of the Cisco site in Macon County, and a Dr. Gueran lived at Newburg, a defunct town near Argenta. During the Civil War a Dr. Burdick, who lived north and east of Cisco, and a Dr. Darling who lived north and west, served here. The latter was musical and had a singing school in an old school house. Dr. J. W. Porter came some time later and was here until 1865. Dr. S. V. Purdy built a small dwelling on the Cisco site in 1871. In the "Piatt County Conservative" of April 19, 1871 he announced his arrival as follows: "Dr. S. V. Purdy, Eclectic physician of Willow Branch Township, having located in the above territory for the practice of medicine, I would respectfully offer my services to the afflicted of the surrounding territory. Special attention given to chronic diseases and mid-wifery." A note in the diary kept by I. McCollister, father of J. W. McCollister, tells us how those early doctors were paid partly in commodities and partly in money for the entry says, "July, 1871, Dr. S. V. Purdy to I. McCollister debtor cash $17.60; oats six sheaths and about two and a half bushels of corn." The doctor died very suddenly about 1874, the year Cisco was platted, leaving a wife and two daughters.

Dr. Leo J. Weinstein came from Ohio to the new town of Cisco in 1874 and was associated with J. B. Hamilton, the druggist. He left here in 1878 and went to Indiana where he practiced until his death in 1909 at age 61.

Dr. William B. Caldwell studied in Ohio, Iowa and Rush Medical College in Chicago before coming to Cisco in 1875. He stayed until 1885 when he moved to Monticello where he had a drug store with his office above it located on the northwest corner of the square. It was there in 1893 he, Allen F. Moore and John Hott formed a company and made and sold Dr. Caldwell's Syrup of Pepsin. Later the company became a subsidiary of the Sterling Drug Company. When he was sixty-seven years old in 1906, Dr. Caldwell developed gangrene in a foot which had to be amputated above the knee. He recovered nicely, secured an artificial limb but he never learned to walk again. His last years were spent in a wheel chair. He passed away September 22, 1922 at the age of eighty-three.

The only doctor who spent all of his professional life in Cisco was Dr. Leslie T. Pease. He spent thirty-two years in medicine, all of them in Cisco. He was born in Sangamon County, Illinois and graduated from Keokuk Medical School in 1878. He had a rough time when he first came to Cisco as Dr. Caldwell was well established in the community. He was a good country doctor but never cared to mingle with other doctors and seldom ever attended county medical meetings. In the early 1870's he married Mary Halstead of Decatur. They had nine children, two died in infancy. A son, Rollin B. Pease, began taking photographs in Cisco and later moved to Decatur where he established the Rembrandt Studio. He married a Cisco girl, Mary Nierstraht in the early 70's. The doctor's wife died in 1905. Dr. Pease remarried in June, 1906, making Hester Burns his second wife. Doctor Pease died suddenly in 1910 at age fifty-seven and is buried in Croninger Cemetery.

Dr. B. C. Graves came to Cisco in 1885 after graduating two years earlier from Missouri Medical School. He also practiced in Macon, Dalton City and Argenta. He passed away in Argenta in 1919.

Dr. Ira Pace came to Cisco in 1891 after graduating at Burlington, Vermont. He stayed only two years. Dr. Holcomb came the same year from Indiana but soon left because there was too much competition.

Dr. Morrell Pattengill graduated from Rush Medical College in 1895, served as an intern for one year at Jacksonville, came to Cisco to practice in 1896. Before entering medical school he taught school two years in Illinois, and two years in Ohio.

A professional card of his appears in the souvenir programme of the second church the Methodists built. It says, "Dr. M. Pattengill, Physician & Surgeon, Cisco, Illinois." The same one appears in the "Cisco Press."

The doctor began to taper off his practice when his wife Nellie, became ill. He finally devoted all his time to her until her death. Dr. Pattengill continued to live in Cisco and always retained his interest in medicine.

Dr. Jessie Taylor McDavid came to Cisco in 1907 and lived where McCabe's live. He graduated from Illinois State Normal University at Normal, Illinois in 1900, from Barnes in 1904, married Olga E. Keck of Decatur in 1908. He moved to Decatur in 1909 because of the bad roads in this vicinity. He served his country in World War I leaving the service with the rank of Major in the Medical Corps. After the war he returned to Decatur where he continued to practice as a surgeon.

Dr. P. G. Capps was in this community for two years from 1910 to 1912. He was a graduate from Barnes Medical School in 1908. When he left here he served in the Medical Corps in the Canal Zone.

Dr. Robert N. Hathway worked on a farm in this locality before he went into medical training at Drake Medical College from which he graduated in 1909. He came to Cisco in 1910, married Antonia Grethe of Deland, moved to Farmer City in 1916 and took a post-graduate course in Public Health. In 1929 he was located in Pulaski County, Illinois under the Rockefeller Foundation. Later he entered private practice at Hamilton, Illinois.

Dr. Benjamin Perry came from Chicago in 1915 but could not stand the quiet nights here and soon returned to Chicago.

Dr. George Kerr came next but only stayed seven-teen months. He later practiced in Chicago Heights.

Dr. John O. Cletcher graduated from Normal and then from the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery in 1912. He had a year of interning at the Francis Willard Hospital. He came to Cisco from Penfield. He was here for seven years and did considerable work in surgery, in which he was very interested. He moved to Tuscola in 1923 in order to be near a hospital so he could devote more time to surgery. Jessie Wilson became his wife in 1926. They had one son, John O., Jr.

Dr. James Weaver Blan came here from Camp Point, Illinois. He was a graduate from Keokuk Medical School at Keokuk, Iowa in 1902. The Doctor was married to Miss Mollie Goehring in 1903 and had two daughters, Dorothy and Mildred. This was a musical family, the doctor being a trombone player in the Shrine Band and Mildred taught public school music. Dr. Blan rather shocked some people when he let it be known that he expected pay for his services. Mrs. Blan died in January of 1930 and the doctor moved to Monticello. Later he was appointed to a position in the Veterans' Hospital in Chicago. The climate there was unfavorable and he was transferred in 1952 to Shreveport, Louisiana. The doctor had remarried, this time to Nellie Haneline. She passed away in 1964. The doctor was retired at the time. In 1966 he lived with his daughter Dorothy in Kankakee, Illinois.

Dr. M. K. T. Blanchard, a woman physician, was practicing in Cisco in the early 1930's. About 1940 she moved to Decatur.

Dr. G. G. Rhodes took his internship at Jackson Park Hospital in Chicago and completed residency at Decatur-Macon County Hospital. Cisco had been without a doctor for several years after Dr. Blanchard left to practice in Decatur. So in January 1942 Dr. Rhodes came to Cisco. His practice grew rapidly, soon outgrowing the small remodelled quarters he had. In 1944, he and his wife (his assistant) and son, moved to Maroa where he practiced medicine about 10 years. At present he is with La Mesa Medical Center of Albuquerque, New Mexico, specializing in obstetrics and gynecology.

Undertakers

In the early 1900's Chris Minick came to Cisco. He lived in the house on the northeast corner of the intersection of Eldon and Dodge Streets. He served the community as an undertaker and he housed the hearse in a barn behind his home.

Maurice Augustus, who lived on a farm southwest of town owned a fine team of black horses which were used to pull the hearse.

Mr. Minick served in this capacity until advancing age caused him to retire.

In the 1890's W. H. Jones worked as an undertaker for this community. Mr. Jones worked with J. A. Eymann, a mortician from Argenta.

John Benjamin recalls that at one time an undertaker had used the upstairs in the two story part of the Jones Building.

Millinery Business

On the west side of Main Street there was Fannie Yeoman's Millinery Store from which the ladies could buy their hats. Other Cisco milliners were Russell & Weddle — Millinery and Dressmakers, Miss Ada Higman and Mrs. Ed Rinehart who had their shop in the north room of the Runkle Building. Mrs. Ed Stuckey later had a shop in the building just north of the bank. She was succeeded by Mrs. Elmer Dallas whose niece, Miss Bertha Loveless, assisted her and made her home with her aunt. All these ladies did a thriving business. A newspaper in a nearby locality said, "the ladies in Willow Branch Township are well served by the Cisco milliners."

Feather Cleaners

At one time a feather cleaning machine was set up by two young men for cleaning feather ticks. A feather tick was a huge sack the size of a bed that was filled with feathers and was put on top of the straw or shuck tick. When one retired into it one sank down into the feathers and stayed warm in the unheated rooms in the homes of the early part of the twentieth century. At times the tick was opened, feathers cleaned, ticking washed and when dry it was refilled with the feathers. The two young men who came to Cisco had two light-frame wagons they used to collect the feather beds in the country. They brought them into Cisco and cleaned them and then delivered them back to the owners. This business lasted only a few months and then they moved on.

Cream Stations

Joe Williams sold cream separators here in 1906. This was so superior to skimming off cream by hand that soon all farmers were using them. They were then sold at hardware stores. The farmer separated from the whole milk, put in five gallon cans and shipped it to the creameries in Decatur and Campaign.

Later creamery stations were established in small towns for testing for butterfat, weighing, and paying the producer. Then the station shipped the cream to the creameries. Thus the farmer received his pay for his cream much sooner. Later the farmers specialized as either grain or dairy farmers and such stations were no longer needed. Mrs. Albert Weddle ran such a station in the north room of the building north of the bank. From 1925 to 1935 Mable Lyons collected cream for the Benson Creamery of Decatur, using various locations as her collecting center such as the barber shop, the Jones building, the little building that stood south of Weddle's Store and the old office building for the Crocker Elevator. The Barnhart-Leach grocery was also a collecting station. Before 1943 Emma Lou Johnson ran a collecting station inside Weddle's Store. Mrs. Isenberg collected for Swift and Company from 1943-1948 in a small building south of the Weddle Store.

The Lumber Yard

John Franz was a lumber, coal and grain dealer in Cisco in 1886. He took his son into business with him in 1889 and in a record of DeWitt and Piatt County it says of Charles Franz, "is classed among the leading young business men of the place and is gaining prominence each year."

Marion Williams operated an early lumberyard in the west part of town near the west elevator, later operating a lumberyard in the east part of town.

In the 1930's the Midland Lumber Company was here for several years. In 1940 Huff and Sons owned the lumberyard and Don McKinley was the manager. Walter and Art Neuendorf owned and ran a lumberyard. The Wilkinson Lumber Company were the next owners with Don McKinley as manager until the operation was discontinued in 1962.

Garages

The north room of the Swam building was a garage operated by Fred Swam, and his sons until he sold the building to Frank Coffman. Later Frank Coffman sold out to Bill Coffman who handled Hudson cars. Then came Donahue, Heinz and Cotton, Carl Runkle and Lukenbill as partners, Lukenbill alone, the Benjamin Brothers Hip and Wessel, Wessel alone, Troxell in 1924 who sold Star cars, Pete (Russell) Sullivan, then Albert Miller for a short time with Ford Agency. Late in 1931 Scott Armsworth bought it and Ollie Benjamin worked for him as a mechanic. At that time it was called the "Cisco Garage and Supply Co." and when Hip Benjamin came into the business in 1933 they sold Plymouths and changed the name to "Cisco Auto Sales Company." In 1934 they acquired the Ford Agency and in 1935 they dropped the Plymouth. Scott Armsworth passed away in 1943 and following his death Scott Dobson bought the business. Later the Gisinger Brothers and their father Ancil ran the garage until they moved to Cerro Gordo where they still have a garage and Ford Agency.

When autos first began to be used in the Cisco area gas was sold at the hardware, Jefford's harness shop and Heinz and Cotton garage. In the late 1920's Ed Brown built a service station on the northeast corner of South and Main Streets, former location of the Kile home. After his death it was operated by his widow for several years. Frank Dent operated it in 1949 and sold to Calvin Vannote, who operated it from 1950 until 1972. Since then it has been owned and operated by Hubert Norfleet. When Route 47 went through Cisco in 1941, J. A. Phillips built a Standard Oil station at the north side of town. In 1946 he leased it to Everett Geisler and Harold McKinley for a year. Orville Ludwig followed and bought the station. Dale Wolf, the Scrimmanger Brothers, and Bob Wisehart also ran this station. In 1967, Wilford Johnson bought the station and is still operating it. Both present service stations carry food items for the convenience of the local residents.

At one time a man who was a junk dealer lived on the east side of South Eldon Street between South and First South Streets. Cy Hubbard at one time had a junk business on South Eldon Street. Ray Hatfield had a used car business from 1945 to 1960 at his place on North Main Street. Parts were salvaged and sold for car repairs and the rest cut up and hauled to the Decatur Junk Yard. Two and three cars were so disposed of a day. Robert Weber collects old cars, mostly Hudsons, and sells parts.

Mr. Ray Hatfield has had a dealer's permit since 1935 but started selling here in 1942 handling only used trucks. His display area was on the southeast corner of Main and St. Charles Streets. About 1943 or 1944 he began to also handle used cars as well as trucks. There were several years when he did not carry on the business but became active again in 1971.

The Miller Trucking and Bus Business and Its Influence on the Cisco Area

A trucking business was begun in Cisco in 1924 when Albert E. Miller started a milk route, picking up milk at farms and taking it to Union Dairy in Decatur. Milk was then hauled in ten gallon milk cans. The only method of cooling the milk was to put the can in a tank of cool water to remove the heat. At that time there was a cream buying station in Cisco, operated by Mabel Lyons. The cream was sent to Benson Creamery in Decatur. Quite a lot of their butter was brought back to Cisco to customers. The trucks also hauled groceries, hardware, the Sunday papers, both Decatur and Chicago, back to Cisco for delivery.

Drivers during this period included Albert Miller, Virgil Miller, Carl Coon, Earl Cloud, Jerry Sites, Harry Cook, Homer Doane and Elmer Cloud.

The roads were not improved at the time except Route 10 from Champaign to Decatur via Cerro Gordo (now route 105). The Cisco to Cerro Gordo road was one of the better roads but in the spring thaw it became impassable for a car so people would follow the milk truck through and use the ruts until they became too deep.

From the milk routes, other trucking business developed such as a weekly trip to Bloomington to bring groceries from the large wholesalers there to stores in Argenta and Cisco, hauling grain from shellers, threshers and finally combines to the elevators, hauling gravel (loaded and unloaded by hand), coal from the coal yard to homes, field tile from the railroad to the farm where it was to be used.

An ice business was operated for several years.

In 1928 when Ford started building the Model A, trucks got larger. This made livestock hauling practical and soon trips to Chicago and Indianapolis stock yards became a major part of the business. Farmers bought their own trucks for grain and general hauling. Larger trucks were needed for livestock so Mr. Miller built a semi-trailer. In 1934 he bought a new tractor and a second semi-trailer. For several years they hauled livestock to Chicago from Cisco and the surrounding area. On return trips they hauled hardware for Remmers Harness Shop at Weldon and for some time brought back groceries for Weddle Grocery. If they had nothing else to haul, they could always pick up a load of limestone at the quarry at Kankakee and sell it to area farmers.

The milk and ice business were phased out.

During the off periods other trucking was done such as machinery and furniture moving and general freight hauling for Decatur Cartage Company.

As livestock raising in the area decreased, so did the trucking business, and was just about finished in 1944 when Cisco High School was closed and students were to go to Monticello High School. Rather than have several carloads of students driving to Monticello daily, some of the parents asked Albert Miller if he could get a bus. He bought a 34 passenger bus and transported students from Cisco and those who lived along the road between Cisco and Monticello to school each day, with the parents paying the cost. This seemed to catch on and in 1945, Monticello High School decided to transport all their out of town students and contracted with Mr. Miller to operate five buses for them, Cisco Grade School contracted two buses for their students. Some of the drivers that year were: Jap Phillips, Darrell Spencer, Ray Hatfield, Lois Johnson, Hildred Pirtle, Paul Timmons, Emmett Johnson, Wilford Johnson, Jerry Sites and Edward Allen.

George Miller was discharged from the army in 1946 and became a partner in the business. In 1947 the operation was moved to Monticello to be near more of the business. After his father died, George continued the business in partnership with Jennie Miller, until he bought out her interest in 1954.

In 1948, Monticello Community Unit School District No. 25 was formed, almost as it now is, taking in the White Heath area and requiring more buses. For the next several years 13 and 14 routes were run to serve the district. Although school enrollment has increased since that time, so has bus capacity, so there hasn't been need for any more buses. However, there had to be buses available for activity trips and adult tours, so by 1973, there were 25 buses in the fleet.

In 1973, George Miller sold the whole operation to Bruce Pinks, who now operates the business as Monticello Bus Service. The continuous operation of the trucking and bus business owned and operated by Albert E. Miller and his son George O. Miller thus ended after 49 years.

Insurance Business

Reed Barnhart had an insurance business in Cisco in the 1940's and 1950's. He wrote all kinds of insurance for his clientele. In 1957 the business was sold to Don McKinley. Perry Brigg and Jack Drew also sold insurance for a time.

Electric and Plumbing Business

Charles Doane and Harry Cook moved their plumbing and electrical business from their first location in the John Shaff Drug Store into the bank building which they had bought. In 1931 they had formed this partnership which lasted until Mr. Doane's death in 1958. Harry continued as a licensed plumber and electrician until he retired in 1969. The building was bought by the Cisco Co-op Grain Co. in 1972.

Do You Remember . . .

Seed Business

About 1917 Joseph W. Williams (Daddy Joe) who had moved into Cisco in 1906 and sold cream separators, built a warehouse for storing seed corn on the west side of Eldon Street between South and First South Streets. Ears of corn for seed were picked by community farmers from standing field corn stalks. At first these ears were impaled on nails driven into the walls and later were suspended from rafters in racks that held each ear separately. The corn dried over the winter, was shelled by Mr. Williams and made ready for spring planting. Later he added farm fanning mill and cleaned wheat, oats, and beans for seed. When hybrid corn came on the market, Mr. Williams took farmers of the community to visit test plots of the new varieties and encouraged their production. He sold the business in 1947 to Clement J. Colgan and Robert Reuter who added more equipment and increased their volume of business. Reuter left the firm in June of 1953. Clem Colgan continued and dealt in small farm seeds and soybeans. At one time he harvested and prepared blue grass seed from Allerton Park. Clem Colgan processed seeds for F.S. for two years before a plant was built on Dodge Street at the west side of town in 1967. That year's crop was the first processed in the present F.S. plant. At this time twenty-five people work at this plant. Work begins at seven each work day and runs until twelve at night, operating continuously. Over a million bushels are processed annually. This includes 750,000 bushels of beans, 140,000 bushels of wheat, and 15,000 to 16,000 bushels of oats. From 5,500 to 6,000 bushels are bagged daily.

Memphis, Tennessee, where furfural was made from them. Furfural is used in making nylon, synthetic rubber, charcoal briquets, paint, commercial solvents, plastics, and in refining lubricants. The firm sold out to Walter and Eugene Pirtle in 1951. The cobs are no longer ground but are shipped as they come from the sheller. From 500 to 600 cars of cobs are annually shipped from Cisco. On the corner of Main and South Streets W. H. Jones tin shed was last owned by Walter Pirtle and used by him for cob storage. This building was torn down in 1968.

There have been many people who have threshed and shelled in the Cisco area. Threshing was done by Ed Salsbury, Frank Painter, Hank and Emery McKee, Gisingers, Albert Miller, Charlie Olson and Dick Wangler. Those referred to have ran shellers are Ed Salsbury, Frank Painter, Charlie Olson, Dick Wangler, and Jake Miller. Jackie also has a trucking business which his sons are involved in.

The Corn Cob Business

Walter Fisher and H. G. (Pete) Benjamin started in the business of grinding corn cobs in 1944. The cobs were ground in a hammer mill and shipped to Edwards Farm Supply Co.

The Edwards Farm Supply Company was formed in 1954. They handle fertilizer and farm chemicals such as insecticides and herbicides. Tom's son Larry became associated with the firm and has made his specialty that of chemicals. This firm was a pioneer in liquid fertilizer and was associated with the second manufacturing plant to make liquid fertilizer in Illinois. Liquid fertilizer has become major source for supplying fertilizer. Since this company is in the heart of Corn Belt, the community has been greatly benefitted by their location here for corn yields have risen from a 50 bushel per acre annual yield to over 125 bushel an acre yield in the 20 years this company has been in operation. Besides the Cisco operation this company has a Maroa Plant, Cerro Gordo Plant, and in early 1974 expanded to four other plants in Illinois. Their wholesale division covers most of Illinois. Edwards Farm Supply presently employs sixteen people and since 1954 this Company has progressed from one 1948 Ford truck to a fleet of 115 licensed vehicles. Members of this company, Thomas, William and Larry report that they feel that the chemical and fertilizer business is in its infancy and they hope to see Cisco thrive because of this. They say, "We are proud to be part of Cisco." It might be of interest to people that Ira McCartney was Edwards Farm Supply's first customer.

Antique Store

It was in 1969 that Bud Barnhart began an antique business. Later Gene Pirtle became an associate in the business. In 1972 the business expanded and used part of the building west that had been used for storage of school buses. The motto or slogan for "Bud's Barn" is, "In the heart of downtown Cisco." Bud reports that they do business all over the country. For example, they have recently sent items to the east and west coasts. Many visitors come from near and far away.

W. A. Goken and "Colonel" (note trappings).

Barber Shops

Usually Cisco has had one or two barbers. Frank Watrous operated a shop from the 1890's to the 1900's. Part of the time Joe Ripple had a shop. Elmer Dallas had such a business for 4 years. Others were Pete Beasley and Abel Price. The latter had a daughter, about 15 years old, who used to shave men in her father's shop. Harry Cooney had his shop in the Runkle Building. In 1902 an ad in the Cisco Index shows that Bert Rankin had a barber chair in his restaurant. Albert Weddle had a shop in the present building from the early 1920's to 1928. Harold McIntyre ran it from 1928 to 1946. Rolla Van Matre from 1946 to 1948 and it has been Warren Clark's since the early 1950's. Other barbers were Carl Dunkle and Pearly Humphrey.

Beauty Parlors

One of the first beauty parlors was run by Ruth (Kistler) Aber in the 1940's. This was located in the building north of the bank where the barbershop is now. Mrs. Putnam had a beauty shop on the front porch of her home which was on the northeast corner of Main and North Streets. (Walt Pirtles live there now). Nadine (Doane) Cook worked as a beautician from about 1924-1930.

Hildred (Armsworth) Webb ran a shop in her home several years after 1930. Then in 1956 Leora Clifton opened an addition at the rear of her home, called "Le Jak's Beauty Parlor" and this is still in operation. Paula Chumbley presently has a beauty shop "The Village Boutique" just east of her house.

Avis' Ceramics

Since 1967 Mrs. Avis Bennett has a ceramics workshop at her home at the intersection of Sherman and St. Charles Streets. As a part of her equipment she has molds, a slip machine and two kilns. Mrs. Bennett teaches an all day class and Ruby Leach teaches in the evenings.

Hazel's Ceramics and Gift Shop

Hazel Pirtle opened a shop at her home on the northeast corner of the intersection of Main and North Streets in 1970. Articles she sells in her shop are all items she has made.

Dave Wiseman Pool Hall, 1946

Pool Halls and Recreation

The Pool Hall was located on the east side of Main Street, site of the present Post Office. Everet Giesler and Dave Wiseman both ran one for years. Then later, Marion "Cookie" Cook ran a pool hall.

A skating rink was run by Dave Wiseman in the Runkle Building where there was a tavern also. Dances were held at night in the skating rink. A story that a number of people recall about the tavern is that one night a bunch got a bit carried away and someone suggested that they throw out the stove and the men did just that. That about finished the tavern.

Movie House

One entered the movie house from Main Street by a door that led into a narrow corridor to the back of the theatre. The screen hung on the west wall. A door at the southeast corner of the room was the exit. Frank Coffman's son, Guy, operated the engine to generate the electricity to run the projector which Virgil Cotton operated. About 1918 Mrs. Walt Troxell and Mrs. Guy Coffman, who was nicknamed "Peaches", sold the theatre tickets.

Ancil Gisinger recalls that one night a tragedy was averted when the large engine belt broke and hit the wall with terrific force but injured no one. However, it ended the movie and people left in total darkness.

Open Air Movie House

Pete Benjamin recalls attending movies here. It was the usual thing to run serial stories with an episode each week. One such picture was "Helen Holmes and the Lumberland." In those days the movies were in black and white and were silent. They were known as "flicks". Pete also recalls that his favorite comedian was Jerry Sweet who preceded Charley Chaplin.

Free street movies were held in the 1920's and through the later years. They were held south of the east elevator, south of the Runkle Building (McKinley's Store), and south of the present Post Office.

Cisco had tent shows or Percy shows and even circuses in town for the enjoyment of young and old.

There was an Open Air movie house west of Hitchen's building. The closed front allowed for an entrance, ticket window and projection tower.

Cisco has been a baseball town from back in 1920 or before. At one time we had baseball and softball and different age teams. One year all the Cisco baseball team were hired, except Rip Dowdle and John Gisinger. They were hired from Champaign, Decatur and Clinton. Harry Lyons played on early teams. Games were played east of town and south, before the diamond in town was formed. The first lights were bought by donation, hooked up by Harry Cook and the reflectors made by Pete Sullivan. Rip Dowdle graded McGinnis berry patch to form the diamond at the school.

Cisco had a band in the early 1900's. The leader was Fred Warrick. Sam Clover was a drummer. They practiced in the Opera House, and gave concerts on the street during the summer months. They also played a picnics held in the grove on the school grounds. Interest finally died down and the group disbanded.

Social events included the strawberry festival, 4th of July celebration, church chicken fries, Homecomings, and bean suppers. One person remembers when there was a basketball game followed by a boxing match at one Homecoming.

Other entertainment not listed otherwise were "Play Parties," treasure hunts, chivaries, box socials. Play parties are what the name implies, parties where people played games. Treasure hunts had two main periods of popularity in Cisco. Clues were hidden in town and out and the winners for one time furnished the refreshments for the next time. The drivers of the cars pulled quite interesting antics.

Chivaries were parties given "newlyweds," a surprise party.

Box socials were held to raise money for something or just for fun with an organization benefiting from the proceeds. The lady's would fix a meal for two in a pretty box and then the box would be auctioned off. The lady would eat with whomever purchased her box.

Little League Baseball

Little League Baseball was organized in Cisco during the year of 1963. Several interested people got together to make plans for the formation of a program and renovate the ball diamond. That same year we were asked to join a league that included Weldon, DeLand, Bondville, Seymour and White Heath.

Since some of these towns had two teams entered in the league, Cisco decided to enter two teams also. The two teams just barely could muster up enough boys to field a full team. Cisco had always been competitive in the league with at least one of the teams and finally won the league in 1972 after forming only one team due to a shortage of players.

Cisco Little League has never had a sponsor, but is made up of an association of interested parents. The teams have been self-supporting due to a concession stand that was built in 1964 and a voluntary five dollar ($5.00) donation by a participating family.

The following people have been managers or offered leadership since its beginning: Merle Chapman, Sam Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Bill Sago, Bill Guyot, Jim Giesler, Mr. and Mrs. Essell Miller, Patricia Ford, Glen Bolsen, John Miller, Delbert Williams, Jack Clifton, Don Reed, John Mackey, Jack Drew, Stan Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Huisinga, Eddie Elson, Dwight Marquis and Shorty Shafer.

THE CISCO BAND

EARLY 1900'S

*The Cisco band is the finest band
I nearly ever saw,
The very first piece they always play
Is "Turkey in the Straw."
Now I will tell you what I can
About this little Cisco band.*

*There's Willie Jeffords, Johnnie Malone,
And "Bunco" so they say,
Uncle Sam, he plays the snare drum
To drive his troubles away.
Keen, with his old bass horn
Sounds just like "Barney" before a storm.*

*Mr. Stuckey! Oh how hard he tries!
And if you watch him closely,
You'll see he makes those goo-goo eyes.
Ah! there's Phillip, he cuts quite a swell
And when he plays that little horn,
The girls all say, "Don't he do swell."*

*Young Coffin, as you understand,
He got married and left the band.
Rollie Evey, as you all know,
Is right in the front, wherever they go.*

*I've said all I have to say
So I guess I'd better go,
For there's no use for Sousa's band
To play against Cisco.*

The library was first put in the Shaff Drug Store under the supervision of Mrs. Shaff. The club finally interested Mr. Allerton and the township in the library.

They celebrated their 50th Anniversary with a tea on April 6, 1966.

Scouts

From the Cisco news of the Piatt County Republican, December 30, 1920 issue, "At a meeting held Tuesday evening in the basement of the church — preparations were made for the organization of Boy Scouts here. Mr. Kinister of Decatur made an interesting talk on the subject of the Boy Scouts. Rev. H. L. Thall of the M. E. Church is to be local Scoutmaster. About 16 boys have already signed up to become scouts." In 1918 there were 14 scouts represented by Leo Ulman at a program at the Presbyterian Church. Leaders over the years included Rev. Cockran, Pete Benjamin, Rev. Clapper, Dean McCartney, Bob Reuter, Dale Wolfe, Burt McIntosh, Harold Benjamin, Larry Edwards, Bert Tritchler, Paul Slifer and Glen Bolson. The Cubs are under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stevens and are active.

South Birthday Club

On Feb. 14th, 1925, the following invitation was sent to twelve neighborhood ladies to form a club called the "Birthday Club". Now it is called the "South Birthday Club."

"With an hour full of task
Your presence I ask.
To grace a jolly, hearty party.
We'll laugh and we'll play
As long as you stay.
A welcome awaits you most heartily."

The members that joined that day were: Katy Young, Elizabeth Brame, Nora McCartney, Daisy Taylor, Mildred Yates, Blanche Niles, Bessie McKinney, Anna McCartney, Myrtle Whisnant, Olive Reed, Lutie Parr and Lilly Leach.

Mrs. Blanche Niles was the hostess. Members drew the month for entertaining and also a name for a gift for each hostess.

We did all kinds of needlework supplied by the hostesses such as quilting, knotting comforts, hemming dish towels, rug rags. We made garments for the Red Cross, war babies and whatever was needed. We are in our 48th year.

Our friendship has been a token of remembrance all through these years. We never would of visited our neighbors as much had it not been for the Birthday Club.

The North Birthday Club

The North Birthday Club was organized February 14, 1929 in the home of Mrs. Blanche Niles. The ladies organized as a social and handworking group. As well as their embroidering, knitting, sewing, etc., they sewed baby clothing, lap robes, etc., which they gave to the Red Cross during W.W. II, even meeting for extra hours.

The charter members included Blanche Niles, Edythe Weddle, Aileen R. Rannebarger, Prudie Hamilton, Gladys Doane, Lavina Weddle, Pearl Miller, Thada Olson, Margaret McIntosh and Nettie Clow. The children attended the meetings and looked forward to them. The ladies had many clever meetings as the time they had a mock wedding. Four ladies, Blanche, Edythe, Aileen and Gladys, still belong. Other present members are Audra Chapman Myers, Ruth Reeves, Juetta Hiser, Florence Mansfield, Beulah Williams, Lotus Briggs, and Patricia R. Ford.

Cisco 4-H Clubs

In 1928 a group of girls organized as the "Jolly Juniors" 4-H Club under the leadership of Mrs. Bertha Shaff, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Ripperdan. After a time it divided into two clubs, the "Cisco Circle" and the "Kitchen Klatter Club." In 1939 it was decided to form one club, making an older girl responsible for helping a younger one, and they named the combined group the "Big and Little Sisters Club." This was a large group and met all day at the Methodist Church for many years.

An example of a days activities as taken from a June 1941 program would be: the business meeting; talks, "Cookies in General," "Kinds of Cookies," "Ways of Using Cookies," "What To Do First in Making Cookies," "Hand Sewing," "Refinishing Furniture," "Ingredients for Yeast Bread"; and demonstrations, quick bread, dairy food, pattern alteration, plain seams, shaping light rolls, flower arrangements, judging cookies, and how to take a hem.

The club had a band, led by Marjorie Reeves, with band uniforms. The band played at church and other functions and in 1941 played in Lincoln Hall Theatre at the Annual 4-H Club University Tour. A few years later the club had a choir.

In the 1942 Piatt County 4-H News Letter it was stated that "In the August National 4-H Club News Mrs. Jason Ripperdan and the Big and Little Sisters 4-H Club were recognized as an outstanding leader and club in the United States, all over the world for that matter, because this is a NATIONAL Magazine. There was a long article about the kind of participation the club takes in the church."

Through the years many girls were selected State Outstanding and from these, four were elected as delegates to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. They were Gladys Reason, Georgia Briggs, Margaret Scott and Carolyn Campbell. Girls and their projects have represented the club and county at the State Fair many times. At the first State Fair after World War II, Frances Reeves and Patricia Rannebarger were selected to represent the county and received an A rating, giving the demonstration twice at the fair.

Others, who led the Big and Little Sisters Club at Cisco, were Georgia Briggs, Audra Briggs and Elizabeth Reeves. Many other adults helped with the 4-H through the years. When Mabel Ripperdan moved, she took the club name with her to Monticello. During its lifetime the Big and Little Sisters Club received many honors and had many outstanding members.

In 1953, Mrs. Gerald Miller organized the present Cisco Busy Beavers 4-H Club with the projects being foods and clothing. Ruth McFeeters and Doris Ann Sago helped as junior leaders. The leaders have been, Mrs. Miller (1953-1960), Mrs. P. C. Barnhart (1960-1961), Mrs. C. E. Gowler (1962-1967), and Mrs. Roy Kleven (1967 until present). Others that have served as leaders are: Janet Frye, Joy Zimmerman, Joyce Mackey, Mary Blythe, Marilyn Mackey, Marjorie Williams, Peggy Nolan, Jean Neundorf, Linda Blythe, Beulah Robson, Mary Catlin, Shirley Sievers, Pauline Vannote, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Sue Weber, Diana Hoffman and Martha Edwards.

The club celebrated their 20th anniversary last summer, being one of the oldest clubs in the county. All the people who had helped through the years were asked to come plus the HEA ladies. After the program there was a birthday party with Mrs. Gerald Miller, the first leader, as an honored guest.

In 1971, an IFYE, Mia Jueken from the Netherlands, visited our club. While here, she stayed with the Roy Kleven family and made a Dutch dessert and taught the girls Dutch games at a meeting.

There is no record of how many girls have gone to state fair, but for the past several years at least one has gone. Judy and Susan Vannote did an outstanding demonstration at state fair when Illinois was celebrating its 150th anniversary. They made bread with a starter and wore old fashioned clothes. The girls from the club who have earned the Key Club Award, the second highest award given in 4-H are: Jean Mackey (1956) Susan Miller (1957), Joyce Mackey (1959), and Virginia Kleven (1973).

The Cinderella 4-H Club was organized in 1966 in Monticello with Mrs. Pat Lubbers and Mrs. Yvonne Howland as leader. In 1969 Pat moved to the Cisco area. That year they had a club project of ceramics, which Mrs. Avis Bennett helped them with. By 1970 the club branched into many different areas.

The club has had one or more girls and projects go to the State Fair each year. Among those going are Kathy Howland and Deborah Lubbers.

Some of their activities have been: cooking for their parents, dairy promotion, State 4-H Week, overnight campouts, tour to Tolly's Bakery, McManus Florist, Ken's IGA, Meadow Gold Dairy, Romano's Pizza, Artistic Yarn Shop, Zimmerman Fine Fabrics, etc., and helping with the Earth Day at Cisco.

4-H for boys in the Cisco area started about 1937, Bob Ater being the first leader. In 1938, Rueben Anderson became leader of the "Cisco 4-H Club" for the next 6 years. Some of his helpers were Robert "Peachy" Leach and Corwin Kingston. This club went camping down by the river for a couple of nights every summer. Mrs. Anderson and Mabel Ripperdan would bring them big freezers of homemade ice cream. With the old mare of Mr. Anderson and an old buggy given them by Bert Reeves, the boys were all over town picking up paper and scrap metal during W.W. II. The paper was taken to the old grain elevator office where it was shredded, baled, and then sold in Decatur. The money earned from the drives was given to the Red Cross and used by the boys for baseball equipment.

After Mr. Anderson, Don Whisnant was leader followed by Orville Sago. Other known leaders are Harold Frye, Orville Frye, Stanley Mackey, who led for 15 years, James Burns, Frank Hoffman, Dewey Briggs, Roger Briggs, Clifford Davis, Dale Bennett, Jr., and Roy Kleven (present leader).

Shortly after W.W. II there was camping at 4-H Memorial Camp in Allerton Park. The project list available to the boys has enlarged from livestock and garden, so there is a project for all boys interests.

Cisco Homemakers Extension Association

Piatt and Douglas counties united in December, 1930, to participate in the organization known as Home Bureau whose aims are to help the housewife with her problems in the home and with her family. This partnership with Douglas County was dissolved and in 1965 the name was changed to Homemakers Extension Association.

Monthly meetings of the local unit were, and continue to be, held in the homes of members. There were five members that first year: Mrs. Walter Miller, Mrs. W. E. McCartney, Mrs. Clifford Weddle, Mrs. Robert Dent, and Mrs. Lavinia Weddle Gould. Mrs. Gould had the distinction of being county board member. She made the trip to board meetings in Tuscola by driving her son's new car.

There are now 24 members in the Cisco Unit. Present officers are: Mrs. Robert Williams, chairman; Mrs. Gene Gowler and Mrs. Roger Briggs, first and second vice-chairman; Mrs. James Burns, Jr., secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Roy Kleven, county board member.

The American Legion Craig-Reed Post 1181

The American Legion, Craig-Reed Post 1181 was named for two men from the Cisco community, who were killed in World War II, Forrest T. Craig and John David Reed. Forrest T. Craig was lost in Asia while flying supplies over the mountains, known as the Hump, between India and China. John David Reed died during the Bataan Death March in the Philippines. John David was returned after the war and buried in Weldon, Ill. Forrest was never found.

The Post was formed in the fall of 1948 and a temporary charter was applied for on November 26, 1948, with Daniel J. Weddle as the commander. The names on the application were: Robert C. Zimmerman, Gerald J. Sites, George O. Miller, Max L. Cornell, James A. Giesler, Daniel J. Weddle, Wilmer L. Clifton, Veterans of three wars: Frank Lyons, World War I; Martin Westbay, Spanish American War; and Bill Davis, Civil War.

On April 2, 1949 the permanent charter was applied for with the following officers: commander, Gerald J. Sites; vice commander, Paul P. Reed; adjutant, Jack C. Clifton; finance officer, Clement J. Colgan; chaplain, Lester Guyot; sergeant-at-arms, Max L. Cornell; historian, Donald W. Hall; service officer, Charles G. Leach; publicity officer, Harvey Jenkins.

The Post first met on the second floor of the Town Hall. They soon moved to quarters over Weddle's Store and remained there until 1954 when the present building was bought from Lyle McFeeters, for the Post home. The Post has been active in the community over the years, presenting Memorial Day services each year and holding an annual fall festival. The Post has sponsored many young men to Boys State and has carried many other Legion programs.

American Legion Auxiliary

The Craig-Reed Unit 1181 held its first organizational meeting May 6, 1949, in the home of Hazel Pirtle. Assisting with the meeting were the District President, Hazel Cannon; the District Secretary, Eloise Mount; the Post Commander, Jerry Sites; and the Post Adjutant, Jack Clifton.

There were 45 charter members. They are: Betty Armsworth, Dorothy Colgan, Leora Clifton, Mary Carolyn Chapman, Helen Dowdle, Dottie Giesler, Wilma Hall, Ruth Leach, Ruby McGinnis, Ruth McIntosh, Hazel Pirtle, Olive Reed, Jennie Snyder, Mar-

Meetings were held in the Town Hall until the next May, when they started using the top floor of Weddle's Store. The present Legion Hall was purchased in 1954.

This organization has always been a service organization, and therefore has done many things for the community. Some of the community services include giving aid to needy families (food and clothing), sponsoring community Christmas parties, serving meals for farm sales, and providing meals when a death occurs in the community. Servicemen are remembered at Christmas time with gifts and cards.

The Veterans craft exchange and the poppy program provide a means of support for some of the hospitalized veterans. The unit sponsors a Poppy Poster Contest and an Americanism Essay contest to help make our young people more aware of their heritage. Coupons are collected to help purchase needed equipment for the hospitals, for example, dog food seals are saved to purchase seeing eye dogs. The unit helps support the girls cottage at the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Home at Bloomington with sponsorship money, Christmas gifts, and spending money for the girls. Hospitalized veterans are remembered with tray favors, clothes, books, puzzles, cards, stationery kits, etc. Numerous other projects and programs are carried out by the auxiliary each year.

The first Fall Festival was held September, 1952, on the school ball diamond. A chili supper and games were featured. It was such a success that it became an annual affair. In 1954, the menu was changed to cornbread and beans. It wasn't until 1956 that they were able to have it in the present Legion Hall. Dances on Wednesday evenings were sponsored to help raise money to pay for the building.

The Junior Auxiliary was first activated in 1953 with Jean Neuendorf as their Senior advisor. Their program has remained much the same through the years. They make tray favors for Danville Veterans Hospital. Joke books, stationery kits, and crossword puzzles are also made. Grave decorations are made and placed on veterans graves in local cemeteries.

Our Gold Star Mothers to date are: Mrs. Lula Craig (deceased), Mrs. Charles Parr (deceased), Mrs. Olive Reed, and Mrs. Leora Vannote. Gold Star Sisters are Nora Rose Jackson and Mrs. Lucille Gulley. Mrs. Joan Vannote is a Gold Star Wife and Miss Susan Vannote is a Gold Star Daughter.

From 45 charter members in 1949, the auxiliary has grown to a membership of 95 seniors and 22 juniors, a total of 117 members in the 1973-1974 year.

Cisco Junior Woman's Club Cisco Evening Woman's Club

Seventeen women in the Cisco community formed the club on November 7, 1933. At this time the club became affiliated with the district and state federation.

The object of the club was and is now, mutual counsel and sympathy, unity of action in case of need, and the promotion of higher social and moral conditions. The club motto: "Be Ye Workers of the Club and Not Members only."

The charter members were: Martha Allmon, Dorothy Dye, Elizabeth Dye, Maxine Giesler, Ruth Harvey, Mary Johnson, Leora Miller, Doris Sullivan, Thelma Swarts, Norma Taylor, Othello Taylor, Irene Weddle, Frances Rinehart, Laverne Evey, Norma Rose Reed, Delora Whisnant, and Kathleen Sullivan.

Through the years the club has given time and money to the betterment of the community. Funds have been used for magazines for the school; needed articles for the library, county nursing home, church, and school; summer camp scholarships in art, conservation, and music to area students; and the County Blood Bank. The club has canvassed for the March of Dimes and Mental Health Drives. Sponsored "Community Sing" for several years with the Senior Club, and donated cookies to the Rantoul U.S.O.

To honor the servicemen, a bronze plaque bearing their names was placed at the entrance of the Cisco Methodist Church.

For the past three years a $200 scholarship has been awarded to a senior graduating from Monticello High School.

Sewing Club

It was in 1947 that a group of ladies formed the sewing club to do all kinds of handwork for themselves. Some did sewing, mending, crocheting or knitting while they visited. They meet once a month and have a pot luck dinner with no meetings for the months of August and December. This club is still active in 1974. Remember the Cisco basketball team coached by Frank Wrench, the principal? The boys practiced in a very small "gym" on the third floor of the old grade school building. And what a thrill it was when we finally got a real gym and had games there.

Remember the girl's basketball team which used to play short games before the boys games?

Remember Alicia Skeet, the music teacher, who came out from Millikin to teach and struggle with our small band?

It's the common ordinary folks,
The ones like you and me,
That get most out of living
In a small community . . .
The ones who work the whole day through,
But evening brings them rest,
Sweet peace and being all together,
The envy of the best.

REMEMBER

Pattengill Deer

Doctors travelled by horseback and horse and buggy to make their calls. According to a journal kept by Dr. Pattengill, house calls were a dollar, medicine usually twenty-five to fifty cents and deliveries ten dollars.

How many remember setting hens and hatching chickens?

Who remembers when Effie Armsworth took peeled apples to church for Bill to eat during the service so he would be quiet?

Chandler Reunion at the "Ole Swimm'n' Hole" in 1910: Louis, Henry, and Bryon Melvin, Edgar Martin, Mabel Melvin Donavon, George and Myrtle Whisnant, Helen Melvin, Maude Melvin Harland, _____, Lucille and Lloyd Parr.

Riding in the water wagon at threshing time and those wonderful threshing dinners.

When road machinery was a tractor with drive wheels about 8 feet high and the jumbo grader for pulling the dirt to the center of the road.

Helping a neighbor in need.

In 1914 over 100 goats were bought by Earl Rannebarger to clean up the brush. He sold them to Mac Ashton, who gave one to Lawrence Coon. Lawrence trained it to drive. Mac sold the herd to Scott Armsworth, who sent them to Chicago. The men all lost money on the goats.

The days when Charlie Roderick had a Huckster Grocery Wagon?

Do you remember Mohawk haircuts?

Who remembers hunting prairie chickens but had no deer or pheasants?

When we didn't know what soybeans were as a crop?

Who remembers getting baking powder in a hob-nail, milk glass candy dish?

One evening in the late 1920's, a little after 4 P.M., the main street in Cisco became devoid of any form of human life. Usually at that time of day things were pretty busy, but not in this instance. Every person had raced to get behind closed store doors, etc., but all were crowded up to and peering out every available window. The reason? A very, very large skunk had come down the exact middle of the street from way up north and was headed south. He went straight ahead, humping leisurely along, with an utter disdain for the watchers. Suddenly, to the horror of the on-lookers, Charles Leach came striding from the old board-walk area on the east side of the main street. His destination was Barnhart and Leach's General Store, but the path of the skunk was not favorable for this. Unheeding, his head down in thought, Charlie was fast closing the distance. Nobody had the courage to open a door or window and yell at Charlie, because skunks can hear, too. We just knew Charlie would start angling across the railroad tracks and there would be a most catastrophic meeting.

But luckily, in the nick of time, Charlie raised his head. Now, Charlie had long legs and they served him well that time. I don't remember whether he took off east or back south, but he was out of sight in a flash! The skunk reached the depot where King Pattengale was in hiding, too, and then seemed to sort of fade away. Maybe he took the next "puddle-jumper" out of town. He was never seen again.

The old livery stable and when it burned?

THINGS I STILL REMEMBER ABOUT CISCO, ILLINOIS

by BERTHA M. JONES

My parents were Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Jones. My father owned the grain elevator on the west side of Main Street, across the street from the Weilepp elevator. They were always friendly competitors. Mr. Weilepp's laugh was deep and friendly and a vital part of him and contributed to the feeling of friendliness in the town.

January 12, 1889 I was born in a large white house near the railroad, just east of Main Street. We called the train "Barney," and it was called tri-weekly, "It went west one week and tried to get back the next." Our permanent home was built a few blocks south of this home.

The important buildings in Cisco that I remember are the Methodist Church; the big school; the general store owned by Mr. Seeley, and later Theo Evins; Dr. Pease' office; and our home. Mr. Seeley and Mr. Evins were fine merchants and carried a large stock of modern items. There was a large hotel on the corner across from the railroad station. The place that is still dearest to me is our home, with its barn and the grove of trees west of it. In our backyard we had a cave, where its coolness kept milk at a good temperature.

One summer day I was lying in the thick grass watching the clouds making new shapes like things I had seen. Then I began to wonder how the earth got here. Suddenly I felt that thought was too big for me. However I have lived long enough to see men walking on the moon.

One day a few neighbors came in with the news that men were drilling for water, but got gas instead, and one man in the well died. Now I wonder, with the fuel shortage if it could give Cisco gas for their homes.

Two activities at the church stand out as special. The first was a Christmas Eve. Many families drove in from the country. Townspeople carried lanterns, making a procession down the center of the street to the well lighted church. When we entered the front door, what a wonderful sight we saw! A Christmas tree reaching to the ceiling, was covered with large red, lighted candles. There was a program of songs, and speeches given by the tiny ones to the adults. Then suddenly sleighbells, and Santa with his pack came dashing in. There were gifts for all the children. The big store had been filled with new toys, and most everyone's gift was appropriate.

Then there is the Easter, when the church seemed filled with sunshine. But what was most unusual, and memorable was that all the women who had canaries brought them to the church and opened the cages. The birds flew out, and the church was full of colorful canaries flying above the congregation. The music had competition. But when the service was over, each bird flew to his cage. This was a once-in-a-lifetime Easter service.

The first day of school, Helen Seeley (lives in California in 1974) held my hand all the way to school. Miss Edwards was our teacher. She had excellent training at Normal and made our lessons most interesting. One day we went to the pump in the school yard and learned how to fill different sized measuring utensils. Then we studied physiology, we heard about the bones in our body. On her way home, Bertha Jones stopped at Dr. Pease' office and he explained different sizes of bones and where they were located so she had the answers to take back to the class. But there was something else she saw on the wall, and Dr. Pease said it was a telephone. His sons nailed a cigar box to the wall and wires led to the Pease home nearby, so they talked by phone and saved time and steps.

When I was eight years old, our home and the elevator were sold and we moved to Champaign, Illinois.

There were three girls in our family: Ethel (deceased at four), myself, and Frances (1895-1930). Frances married Charles R. Little and had four children. Frances, her husband, myself and their children all graduated from the U. of I. I own a cottage in Suncoast Manor at St. Petersburg, Florida. My parents are buried in the Belleflower Township Cemetery. When my father died, letters written by our Cisco friends were read at his funeral in Champaign. I will miss attending the Cisco events, but I hope to hear about it.

John Briggs Family

The Briggs family came from Scotland early in the nineteenth century when Andrew, who lived 102 years, a Protestant innkeeper, was driven by religious persecution to Ireland, settling near Belfast. Among his three sons was Thomas (1815), a flax farmer and linen weaver, who married Mary Armstrong, of Scottish descent, and they had ten children. Because of the large payments demanded by their English landlords, they sought a place of more freedom, and in 1861, the eldest son, John (1840-1931) came to America, settling near Bloomington, Illinois. As soon as he earned the fares, he sent for his father and brothers. John married Sarah Osborne (1854), in 1871, and they had ten children, three dying in childhood. In 1885, the family came to Cisco, and lived one mile north and two miles east of town. Besides farming, John did tiling in the area. Sarah died in 1898, and John married Anne Burge, who did not live long. John then made his home with his daughter, Jennie Miller.

John and Sarah's children are: John O. Briggs (1871-) married Lena Dresback of Deland in 1898. He was a teacher most of his life. They had two daughters, Lora (1902) and Thelma (1906) who married Dimiter Ramandonoff. They and their son David are musicians. Lena died in 1947, and John, a retired teacher, now lives at Evenglow Lodge, Pontiac, and is nearing 103 years.

The Campbell - Kleven Family

In 1894, William Campbell and wife, Lucinda Jackson Campbell, loaded their possessions and small 2 year old son, Roy H. Campbell, into a covered wagon and headed west for Nebraska. After two years of heartbreak and failure, my grandfather sold everything but the horses to buy a saddle and two tickets on the train back east. Dad and Grandma Campbell came back to Lane, Illinois on the train. Grandpa rode one horse and led the other home.

For several years the Will Campbell family lived near Lane, Illinois. About 1906 the family moved to a John Warner farm south of Deland. For most of his adult life Roy did chalk talks for entertainment. He was often called on to give a picture at a school or church program.

In 1915, Roy H. Campbell and Geneva Martin, daughter of E. O. Martin and Grace Williams of Weldon, married in her parents' home, the house where Lotus Briggs presently lives. The Martin family is related to the Chandlers, Melvins, Parrs, as well as the Williams and Reeves.

In 1934 my parents moved to the farm where we presently live. I grew up here on the farm with my sisters, Maxine Poff, Weldon, and Wilma Goble of Clinton, and one brother Martin who is deceased. My parents celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary in Dec. 1973. They still reside in Weldon.

The poor crops, very low farm prices (corn at 10 cents a bushel) convinced him farming was not for him and he moved to Cisco, Illinois, where he lived, with the exception of two years in Iowa. However, he was associated with farming indirectly. He worked for other farmers at times. He operated the Cisco Grain Elevator during the regimen of Mr. Wm. Kyle and under Albert Leach. At one time he assisted Mr. Joe Williams in the selection and preparation of seed corn.

Remember When . . .

Weddings of the bygone era posed unusual problems such as keeping the flowers during cold weather. This really happened — the wedding flowers were purchased in Decatur and on the cold trip home in a buggy they froze, so the flowers were placed in a cold upstairs bedroom where they stayed frozen until just before the wedding. That way they did not turn dark.

Frye History

The Fryes came originally from Germany in the early 1800's, settling in Ohio. Jonathon Frye (1829-1924) was born in Ohio, and married Rebecca Newton.

Several years after the Civil War, Jonathon and Rebecca came from Ohio in a covered wagon to Louisville, Illinois. They raised their family of seven children.

When the family was still quite young, James came to the Central Illinois area. He noticed the better quality of ground, and decided to move to Tolona. When James' first wife passed away he returned to Louisville and married Allie Fender Pointer. James' younger children stayed in the Central Illinois area with their older sisters so Orville Frye was in the Monticello area when he was about 19 years of age and married Katherine Harper in 1925. The Harpers are a pioneer family who settled in Piatt County in the early 1800's.

Orville and Kathryn Frye first settled in Piatt County, renting farms in several different locations. One interesting note on their early years in Piatt County, Orville won the County Championship for corn husking in 1936 and again in 1940. His picking average was more than 40 bushels for an 80 minute period.

The family moved to Cisco in 1948 and stayed for 23 years. During this time their descendants grew to 15 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. They moved to the Clint Harper home place (Katheryn's father) in 1972 and Orville retired from farming. Katheryn passed away in 1973 at the age of 65.

History of Gisinger Family

Four Gisinger brothers, Daniel, Jacob, John and Samuel, arrived by boat in 1750 from Germany and settled in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

Samuel had a son Abraham. Abraham had a family of four sons, George, John, Phillip and Samuel.

Phillip Gisinger (1833-1873). To Phillip and his wife Elizabeth were born the following children: Simon, Amney Ann, Mary Eve, Joseph, Hannah Rebecca, John, Seymour, Cindorilia, Phillip, and Sarah Jane.

Phillip and his family lived on a farm southeast of Cisco.

Simon and Mary Gisinger moved into Cisco in 1895, moving from a farm. They had seven children: Edith, Arthur, Phillip, Myrtle, Ansel, Grace and Ferrill (Johnny).

Mr. Simon Gisinger, when first coming to town, operated threshing machines and corn shellers. He later ran a grocery store and meat market with his son Phillip. They later ran a restaurant. About 1916 he went with the telephone company which was known as The Standard Telephone Company. He managed the office and was the night operator for many years.

Probably one of the most memorable nights was the night that Croniger Bank was robbed next door to the telephone office. He heard the noise of the safe being blown and got out of bed to see what was going on and in doing so bumped a chair and made a noise. Two shots were fired into the office and someone on the outside told him to get back in bed and stay there. Mrs. Goldie Gisinger heard the shots and noise uptown. She awakened her husband Ansel, who went next door to his mother's home. They tried to phone Simon at the telephone office and got no answer. Ansel walked to town carrying a lantern to see if his Father was alright. When he got up town the robbers had disappeared, but smoke was still coming from the bank building. Other people had gathered on the streets, including Scott Armsworth, Earl Rannebarger, Perry Briggs, Dewey Briggs and Carl Duncan.

Arthur and Ansel also ran corn shellers and threshing machines. They also worked in the grain elevators of Cisco.

Myrtle was married to Harry Mintun. They had one son, Ralph.

Ansel was married to Goldie Edwards and they had a family of nine children: Lloyd, Laurence, Lynn, Lorin, Beulah, Mary, Lewis (Bill), Lora Mae (Toone), and Edith (Dolly).

Grace was married to Carl Coon and their family consisted of three children, Donald, Helen and Paul.

Ferrill (Johnny) was married to Cloa Higgins and they had four children. Dale, who was killed in World War II, Lucille, Pauline and Ray.

Ansel and his sons Lloyd and Lynn worked in the Ford Garage owned by Scott Armsworth. In 1944, after Mr. Armsworth's death, Lloyd and Ansel bought the contents of the garage and shop equipment, obtained a Ford Contract, and moved the garage to Cerro Gordo. The garage has been a family business with Ansel, Lloyd, Lloyd's wife (Elizabeth), Laurence and Lynn having operated it for thirty years Feb. 14, 1974.

Grace and Ansel are the only surviving children of the Simon Gisinger family.

Remember When . . .

On Halloween night the farm boys would all come to Cisco to do their thing. They rode mules and horses which they tied up to the hitching rack across from Jefford's Hardware Store. One of the tricks I will not forget was when the Claude Stine boys poured sorghum molasses on the saddles.

He was a member of the board of Trustees at the Enterprise and Cisco Methodist Churches. He was a director of the Cisco Grain Company. Mr. Goken died in 1930. William A. Goken

William A. Goken (1885-1952) known by everyone as "Bill" was born northwest of Cisco in 1885. He was the son of Berend and Alveta Goken, with five brothers and one sister. Berend, who came from Germany, and Alveta were married March 12, 1878 at the Presbyterian Church in Cisco. The family outgrew the first house on the farm, so they moved to a larger house on Stringtown Lane on the same farm. This is the house the family calls the old home place. Years later Bill's parents moved to Argenta and Bill took over the farming.

Owen and Angelina Westbay, 1921.

Bill drove his horse, Colonel, to court Elsie A. Wilson, daughter of John and Ida Wilson. Ida Wilson was the daughter of Owen and Angeline Westbay, who lived in Cisco for many years. Bill and Elsie were married in 1910. They had two sons, William Lee (1911-) and Owen Edward (1915-), who went to Pleasant Ridge School. Here is where Owen got the nickname "Shorty". Both boys went through their junior year at Cisco, then graduating from Argenta. Following the boys graduation, Bill and Elsie moved to the brick home of Bud Kistler west of Cisco for twelve years before retiring to their home in Decatur. Finding time on his hands, Bill worked at David's Food Market. Elsie and her mother did clothing alterations and fancy work until they died; Ida Wilson in 1960 and Elsie Goken in 1973.

Owen married Mable L. White of Argenta in 1934. They have two children, Marita and Richard, and five grandchildren. Lee Goken married Minnie Sheipe of Toledo, Ill., in 1934. They have one son, Garold Lee and three grandchildren.

Leischner History

The farm of James H. Leischner has an interesting history all its own. The original area of the farm was in two separate tracts of land. One section was obtained in 1837 from the United States Government by Philo Hale. By 1840 the William Madden family bought the land. This section was left to his heirs. Later it was sold to Michael and Hattie Shaff in 1872.

The second section was purchased by Charles Carpenter in 1849. This was sold to Lytle and Clarissa Faurote. They sold to William Madden in 1852. It too was left to the heirs of William Madden. In 1859 the land was divided into five separate tracts of 15½ acres for each of the five Madden children. The remainder of the land went to his widow. In 1909 Michael Shaff owned the full 102 acre tract of land. Before he had obtained it all, it had passed through many hands, sold several times for taxes, and even traded between brothers without legal registration of it being traded (one tract of 15½ acres for another tract of 15½ acres). Michael Shaff had to buy each 15½ acre tract separately and straighten out lines of each by buying other land adjacent to the property, and correcting registration of transaction not recorded. Finally he had the correct acres of 102.

These people have owned the Leischner farm: Philo Hale, Chester Carpenter, Lytle and Clarissa Faurote, William Madden and wife, John T. Madden, Francis M. and Lydia Madden, William W. Madden, Cynthia A. Madden, James N. and Melinda Madden, Mary J. Madden, Sarah A. and John Hailstad, Nicholas H. Devore, Stephen and Almini Huiffines, Wm. W. and Grace Madden, Israel and Mary Jane Clover, Emmanuel Clover, Rachel and Samuel Havelly, Henry V. Moore, Ella F. Reason and four children, Martin P. and Mary P. Murphy, Michael and Hattie Shaff, Laura B. and George W. Denning, Emma G. Chamberlin, Mary Chamberlin, George H. and Polly A. Chamberlin, Francis Graham, Cynthia A. and Thomas H. McCartney, W. E. Croninger, Richard H. and Anna Coon, Jessie and Emma Albert, Frank R. and Ella Albert, Jessie and Irene Hainline, Taylor and Lucy Coon, Albert E. and Jennie Millerm, James A. and Ida May Stout, B. F. and Ada Simonton, Robert C. and Ola E. Kirk, James H. and L. Virginia Leishner and tracts for sons Dale E. and Irene and James C. and Delores.

The farm has contained a kiln for firing bricks made from the clay on the farmland. The original house which still stands, was made from some of these bricks. It has a history as a place where Abe Lincoln often stopped to rest overnight and visit with the owners, when on his Circuit rides.

In 1947 James H. and L. Virginia Leischner bought the farm. They had three sons: James C., Dale E., Larry D. and a daughter Linda K. When they bought the restaurant in Cisco they moved there, ran it from 1970-1971, still live in the same building.

In 1855 Weston and Sam Miles came to Piatt County and bought 160 acres each, for five dollars an acre, both east of what is now Cisco. Sam stayed here, but Weston returned to Moorefield, West Va., until the spring of 1863. The war got so bad that Weston decided to leave for Illinois. His horses were stolen by the south when he got ready to travel. He went to a fellow, who was able to get them back, so they hitched up and left during the night. They loaded two wagons, one a two horse wagon and the other a heavy four horse wagon.

Weston and Martha Miles had ten children: Edward, John, Mary, Ann, Mortimer, Trout, Charles, Jess (dug wells), Tom (David Thomas was a preacher), Gertrude, and one died in infancy. Gertrude married Fred Neistraht and their daughter, Mary, married Rollin Pease, son of Dr. L. Pease. The two oldest, Edward and John, joined the Federal Army and Martha stayed in Virginia with the two youngest, until Weston got to Illinois with the other six children.

Weston and the six children left with the wagons from Moorefield in March, 1863 and arrived here in May, 1863. Near Seymour, Illinois, the wagons became stuck in the mud, so Weston and part of the children rode on to brother Sam's, leaving some of the children overnight with the wagons. The next day he took extra horses back to pull them out. Sam and Weston gave land for a railroad right away when the railroad went through what is now Cisco. Sam and Weston married sisters Mary and Martha Simmons. Sam and Mary had ten children, too.

The house on this farm had been moved to this site by a former owner, John Reardon, from the Weddle farm.

During the years that followed Charles farmed 1500 acres with a stable of 40 horses. He took great pride in his horses, often showing them at fairs. He raised many of his horses. His show horses were Percheron. He sold a team of these to Budweiser Company, in St. Louis.

Being one of the more progressive farmers of his day he was one of the first in the area to farm with tractors. He was also one of the first in this area to plant the crop, soybeans, then called the "wonder bean". He owned a Case steam engine which was used to power a Reeves thresher. He also owned a Sandwich corn sheller.

Edward Reeser

Ed Reeser came from a large family who lived on a farm in Pennsylvania at the edge of the Gettysburg battlefield. The strict, hard-working Quaker mother and father taught the family the value of thrift and hard work. The big brick house built by this family over 100 years ago is standing and in good repair as is the stone and wood house constructed by Ed's grandfather Daniel, with the help of Indians.

Life along the Susquahanna River proved too uneventful so Augustus and Edward (the youngest) went to Kansas and took up a claim. They lived in a dugout for two years, but after reckoning with drouth, grasshoppers and locusts they pulled up stakes and came to Illinois. They had learned the art of tile and brick making in Pennsylvania and established a brick yard on ground southwest of Friends Creek Cemetery. In the meantime, Ed met Mary Catherine Williams, daughter of Jackson and Lavinia Williams. Mary was organist at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church which was in Friends Creek Cemetery. They married and moved into a three room house on the present Reeser farm west of Cisco. Mary had inherited part of the original Joseph Long (her grandfather) land from her mother and she and Ed bought adjoining ground in the years to come. They built a new home and barns. Both were active in school, church, lodge and many other local activities.

Ed Reeser was on the first Board of Directors of the Cisco Grain Company and was a director of the Croninger Bank in Cisco. He was very active in lodge work and was a 32nd degree Mason.

For many years Mary Reeser was a director of Rural Park School (which she named). All their children and several grandchildren attended school there. Often the school teachers boarded at the Reeser farm.

The Reeser children were Opal, Herbert and Irene. Opal married Arthur Hendrix and they raised a family of five children. Their children are Mable (Parrish), James Edward, Pauline (Mulligan), Lucille (Walker), and Dorothea (Moore).

Edward Reeser, 1925.

Herbert married Jessie Sellig of Niantic, Illinois, who taught at Rural Park School. Herbert farmed extensively and raised livestock in the vicinity of the home farm all his life. He farmed Rannebarger half-section southwest of Cisco 32 years, also farming his own farms and the home place, in later years. Herbert and Jessie's children are Mary Lotus (Moore), of Decatur, Jacqueline (Westerman) of Argenta, and Larry, who passed away in 1972. In 1952 Herbert and Jessie remodeled the Reeser home and Jessie lives there now. Keith Westerman, Jacqueline's husband, farms the place.

Irene lived for several years in California and married Rex Horning there.

After coming to the farm west of Cisco, Ed lived on the same farm the rest of his life. Mary lived her last few years in Denver, Colo., with their daughter, Opal.

The Reeves Family

William C. (Dick) Reeves was born in a log cabin east of Cisco, in 1861. His parents, John and Angeline Ross Reeves were married on a steamboat on their way west. They eventually settled in Piatt County. When asked by her father to move farther west to Kansas, Angeline refused, saying, "We are going to be Illinois folks!"

Dick Reeves married Eva Longenbaugh in 1888. They had three children, Bert L., Everett and Ralph. Dick lived near Cisco for many years and farmed with horses all his life. On at least one occasion, he bought a lame horse for 25c, doctored it until it was well and sold it for 25 dollars. His horses were well trained. When plowing corn, he would start them down the row, then take a nap. At the end of the row the horses would stand until he woke up, turned them to start on another row and the routine would start again. His motto was, "If you can't ride faster than you can walk, you'd better get off." Just three days before he died at the age of 84, he had ridden several miles on horseback. Dick and Eva celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1938.

Bert L. Reeves married Anna Elizabeth Cosby in 1916. Bert served as teacher, principal and superintendent in Illinois schools for 26 years before retiring to a farm near Cisco in 1936. While in Cisco he served as director of the Piatt County Farm Bureau, and the Piatt County Service Co., and as Chairman of the Piatt Co. ACSC. They were active in church. Elizabeth (Betty) was a music teacher before moving to Cisco. In later years, Bert and Betty were active in Eastern Star. Betty was a choir director, member of Woman's Club, Home Bureau, and Sewing Club. They had four children: Bert L. Jr., Elizabeth Jean, William C. (Bill), and Marjorie Ann.

Jean was an instructor in the College of Veterinary Medicine at the Univ. of Ill. for many years. She lives in Cisco. Bill attended the Univ. of Ill. He died suddenly at age 42 in 1963. Marjorie graduated from Ill. State Univ. and has an M.S. degree from George Peabody College. She is the area specialist and teacher consultant in vocal music for the Springfield Schools. She is listed in the 1973-74 edition of "Outstanding Educators in America."

Everett, son of Dick and Eva Reeves, graduated from Illinois State Univ. and taught in Illinois schools until his death in 1927. He married Cassie N. Cross in 1917. She was selected "Mother of the Year" in 1957. Everett and Cassie had four children: Colin, Richard, Margaret and Robert, and thirteen grandchildren.

Ralph (1900-), the third child of Dick and Eva Reeves, was born on a farm northwest of Cisco and lived there till his death in 1969. He married Ruth Dressler of Weldon in 1930. They were parents of three children, Frances, Ronald, and Lois. Ralph served on the School Board for several years and also was quite active in the Methodist Church.

Frances graduated from Normal University and has a master's degree from the U. of I. She and Louis Kallenbach, Jr., have four children: Larry, Lynn, Donald and Darren (deceased). Frances teaches in the Deland Weldon school and Louis is the co-owner of the Deland Locker Plant. Ronald married Jan Ruby and they have two children, Rhonda and Shawn. Ronald is a farmer and still farms the Reeves home place, purchased in 1886. Lois married Bruce Cripe. Bruce was killed in 1972 and Lois and their three children live on a farm southeast of Cerro Gordo.

Peter Remmers and Anna Bruns were born in Germany, met in the United States, and married. In 1881 they moved from Logan County to a farm northwest of Cisco where they lived until they retired to DeLand. Their son, John, and his wife moved to the farm. Their son, Harold, still lives on the same farm. Peter's son, Peter and family, lived on a farm east of Cisco. Later they bought a farm near Milmine and moved there, when Henry married Gladys Souders. He moved to the farm east of Cisco and lived there until John Remmers bought the farm and his daughter, Evelyn, and her husband, Max Campbell, moved there. Their son, Danny Campbell and family live there at present.

Jurko Remmers, the oldest son, lived on Stringtown Lane for 16 years and then moved to their farm east of Cisco where Floyd (Bud) Remmers now lives. The only Remmers living in Cisco at this time are Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Remmers and their son, Joe and his family. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Huisinga, Jr., lives north of Cisco as does his son, Dale, and his family; and daughter and family, the Richard Robsons.

Dr. G. G. Rhodes Family

When Dr. G. G. Rhodes came to Cisco to practice medicine in 1942, he remodeled the inside of the small building owned by A. B. Weddle just north of the barber shop. Besides a small reception room, examination and drug room, there was a small bedroom at the back where he lived for about three months. He married Eloise Wilkinson, R.N., whom he met while they were both at Jackson Park Hospital in Chicago, he as a resident and she a student nurse. She became his office nurse. A son, Robert William Rhodes, was born in Cisco.

The doctor developed a good practice. He took some of his patients to neighboring hospitals, but this was at a time when there were still house calls to make and some home deliveries for babies. In 1944 they felt the need for more room and a modern office, so they moved to Maroa for 10 years, after which he entered the service. When that ended, he continued his specialization in gynecology and obstetrics, locating in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where they reside.

Burr Rinehart (1882-1955) came to Cisco when he was sixteen years old. He was born near Argenta, being the son of John Rinehart and Hannah Gisinger Rinehart. Burr married Anna Adams. Anna (1887-1973) married Cleveland Rainey. They moved to Iowa a few years, then came back to Champaign. They had two children, Evelyn and Paul, who both live at Champaign with their families.

The Ripperdan Family

Jason and Mabel Ripperdan came from Indiana in 1918 to an Allerton Farm southeast of Cisco. Jason worked on the farm and I did the housework which meant cooking, washing, and ironing. There were eight in our family, and four hired men. Cooking for so many people three times a day took a lot of food. This was in the time of World War I, and one thing we didn't get much of was sugar; but we soon learned to use corn sugar. One thing that stays uppermost in my mind was seeing six teams of four horses each, come in from the field and the big measures of corn that it took to feed them.

Inez was born in 1919 and Ivan Dean was born in 1926. The following year the family settled in Cisco. Jason worked at Evans Elevator until it was destroyed by fire, then he went to work at the Cisco Cooperative Grain Company. In 1942, Jason was appointed Road Commissioner. He resigned in 1950 when elected Sheriff of Piatt County for one term. Jason was on the school board when the gymnasium was built as a WPA project and when Oak Grove School was consolidated into the Cisco District No. 93. When Cisco voted to have water piped into every home in 1950, Jason was the town mayor. The following fall we moved to Monticello where Jason served as Sheriff, then as assessor in Monticello Township until he passed away in 1964.

We were members of the Methodist Church and I was Superintendent of the Primary Dept. for years. I was the Piatt County Chairman of Red Cross when we entered the Blood Bank Program and have participated in 4-H Club work for 35 years. Since Jason's death, I spend my summers with Inez and the winters with Ivan Dean.

Both Inez and Ivan Dean attended Cisco Grade School and graduated from Monticello High. Inez is a Registered Nurse and works at Burnham City Hospital. She married Fred Werts, and they live on a farm south of Urbana. Ivan Dean joined the Navy in 1944. He married Betty Maple and they have one daughter, Lanette. He attended mortician school and now resides and has a funeral home in Mulberry Grove.

He came to Cisco as a young man in 1881 from the Mowry Grain Co. of Forsyth and working for Mr. Mowry, his life-long friend and patron. In those early days he worked out of a freight car on the railroad siding. The grain brought in by horse drawn wagons was shoveled by hand directly into the box cars for shipping. He sold his elevator to the present day Cisco Co-operative in 1908.

Frank was associated with the pioneer Croninger family in the Croniger State Bank. He was married to Ada F. Naugle whose parents came from Oakley and ran the old hotel across the railroad tracks from the elevator. They were interested in the schools and churches of the village and gave the land for the Cisco school and the Presbyterian Church. Their two oldest children were sent to Champaign to finish high school and later the University of Illinois. In 1906 Frank and Ada moved to Decatur. Those children remaining in the area retain interest in Cisco and grain from nearby Weilepp farmland is still being delivered to the old F. S. Weilepp Elevator.

Frank and Ada had 8 children. They are: Leila (Mrs. V. G. Musselman) of Quincy; Carl N., an attorney, now deceased; Edward S. of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Louise (Mrs. Lester C. Ennis) deceased; Eva S. Do you remember Halloween in Cisco?

All the kids would get together and move everything not fastened down to the front of the school. The next morning school would not start until everything had been returned to its proper place. There was always one of Dick Reeves' buggies on the roof of the elevator. The "big kids" would take it apart, take it up piece by piece and put it together on the roof. The last time it was done, the buggy got broken somehow — and everyone decided it was time to quit. It was all meant and done in good fun. The destruction of someone's property took all the fun out of it.

Whisnant Family

About the time the Illinois Central Railroad was laid, Lewis Andrew Melvin (1848-1918) and his wife, Martha Ann Chandler settled on a section of land west of Cisco. His father was David Whisnant, and his mother, Semelia Ann. George died in 1948, and Myrtle continued to live on the family farm until her death in 1966. Both are buried in Croninger Cemetery.

George and Myrtle had three children: Donald Melvin, Delora Lucille, and Lewis Edwin. All three children attended school at Cisco.

Donald graduated from high school in Monticello and attended Illinois State University. While teaching at Colfax, Ill., he met and married Edna Fortner. On Christmas Day, 1961, Donald and Edna were killed in an automobile accident, leaving the farm to their sons.

DeLora Whisnant graduated from Illinois State University, and taught public school music prior to her marriage to S. Edgar Lauther, a banker from Iowa. The marriage in the Cisco Methodist Church in 1941 was the first marriage to take place there that we know of. The ceremony was performed by a J. Dewey Muir, now of Decatur. Edna Whisnant was the matron of honor.

It was the depression, you could buy most anything for a dime but nobody had a dime in those days.

Ethel and I had five children: Virginia (1921-) married to Kenneth Wiseman and live in Maryland. They have four children, nine grandchildren; Ruth (1923-) married to William Greeson and live in Peoria where she is a beauty operator. They have two children, four grandchildren; Betty (1932-) married to Clarence Keil and live in Peoria. She teaches school for retarded children. They have five children: Dean (1936-) and wife June, live in Indianapolis. They have four children; Fred (1938-) and wife June, live in Tennessee and have two children.

The next eight years were much better for us. We farmed the place where we lived. We baled hay and straw in summertime, ran a community slaughter house in the winter where we dressed out a lot of meat, sausage and lard. The most we did one winter was between 500-600 hogs and 35 beefs. In 1922 I got started with the honey bees which I have kept for 52 years. I served for 7 years as secretary of Piatt County Beekeepers Assoc. In 1947 Ethel passed away. Again we had a tough row to hoe.

Alta Wilson and I were married in 1948 and I rented a farm near Maroa. I have two step children: Gene Wilson (1929-) and Shirley (1939-). In 1950 I served as Worshipful Master of the Cisco Masons. We built a new home in Maroa in 1964.

Frank Williams attended Valpariso, Ind. Teacher's College, later teaching in the schools in Piatt County. In 1889 he married Martha Ann Grove of Monticello. He invented several items, which included an automatic farm gate, Monarch, for which he was granted a patent; Champion Grain Scale, which measured the grain from a threshing machine before it was dumped into the wagon; a Williams scoop board; and a single frame two row corn planter, for which he received a patent. He and his family later moved to Oklahoma.

Loton married Mary Etta Stuckey of Cisco in 1891. There were six children born to this union: Bessie, Tiny who died in infancy, Esther, Kenneth B., Juanita, and Carl Jackson. Loton was a carpenter and built one of the homes they had lived in, which is now occupied by the Peveler family. He operated a store in Cisco and then went to farming the "home place," where his father had previously lived and farmed. Later the family moved to Wisconsin, with the exception of Bessie, who had married Harold B. McKinney (see McKinney history).

Viola Williams married Clement J. Doane in 1896 at Monticello. They lived on a farm northwest of Cisco. They both passed away in 1934.

Rosella attended a teacher's college and taught one year. She married Emmett F. Brown in 1893. They lived in Monticello and Decatur before moving to California in 1912.

Margaret Williams (see Margaret Williams-Jones McIntosh history).

Seymour graduated from the University of Illinois in 1901. He joined the Illinois Conference of the Methodist Church that year. In 1902 he married Jennie May Bennett. He completed his seminary training at Barrett Biblical Institute of Evanston, Illinois. They moved to the Mission Field in Montana and later to the state of Washington.

Scott B. married Virginia Stewart in 1908. With his brothers, Bruce and Chester, they operated a department store in Monticello, where Kaiser's are now located. They sold and moved to Decatur, and operated a department store in the building now occupied by Carson Pirie Scott. Chester later operated a shoe business in Tennessee where he married Freda Patton. They later moved to California. Bruce Williams later traveled for a shoe firm then located in Chicago. He married Ethel Westerman.

Roy graduated from Monticello High School in 1903. He chose to continue his education — later studying violin in Paris, France. Upon his return to the states, he completed his Ph.D. at the University of Iowa, and then taught in several colleges and universities. He married Beulah Pierce. They had one son, Robert Roy. After his health failed, Roy came back to Cisco to retire, living one-half mile east of Cisco. His son Robert, after attending Michigan State University, farmed the land for his father.

Robert married Marjorie Stone in 1951. She received her education from MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., and her master's degree in education from the University of Illinois. They have four children: Jean, Jane, Julia Ann, and James. Robert's family grew up and presently live in the home east of Cisco vacated by Roy and Beulah. Beulah resides in the house next door built by Robert for his parents.

The Joseph Williams Family

In 1906 Joseph W. Williams and his wife, Alice, moved to Cisco from his farm west of Cisco. The year of 1917 marked the beginning of a seed corn sales business that later developed into a large, modern-day seed business in the village. He was also known for his ability to grow fruits and vegetables and always had plants to sell.

Joseph and Alice had one daughter, Zora. She and Warren S. Ater were married in 1912 and they had one son, Robert (1917-). Robert named his granddad "Daddy Joe" and this became his nickname. Alice died in 1920 and Warren, Zora and Robert came to Cisco to live with Daddy Joe.

Warren S. Ater was a member of the Masonic Lodge for 55 years and served on the Town, School and Elevator Boards. Zora M. was a Past Matron in the Eastern Star and served on the Library Board.

"Daddy Joe" Williams

Robert W. Ater and Vione Tuggle were married in 1941 and they had one daughter, Alice Ann (1943-1944). They lived west of Cisco until 1960 when they quit farming because of illness and moved to Decatur where they now live.

Daddy Joe gave an organ to the Methodist Church in memory of his wife Alice. He died in 1953. Warren and Zora built a house east of Cisco and lived there until she died in 1967 and he died in 1969.

Wiseman

David O. Wiseman and his wife, Nellie Carter Wiseman, moved to the Cisco community from Leavenworth, Indiana, in 1918. They had four children, all born at the Leavenworth address. David Wiseman died in 1954, and his wife died in 1970.

Gerald Wiseman married Helen Davis of Macon, Illinois. After living in Illinois for many years, they now reside near Crawford, Mississippi. They have two children — Bill and Jim. Both children are married.

Kenneth Wiseman married Virginia Wykowski of Cisco. They have lived in Baltimore, Maryland, for several years and have four children, all married: David, Larry, Terry and Sharon.

Dean Wiseman married Lillian Seifert of Washburn, Illinois, their present address. They have two children — Hal with the United States Army, and Bob, still at home.

The youngest son, David Wiseman, Jr., died of pneumonia shortly after the family moved to Cisco.

Pete and Katie Young

Young Family

In 1863 Isaac (1822-1899) and Eliza (1827-1900) Young came to the Cisco community in a covered wagon from Garfield C., Ohio. They established their home, a log cabin, south of what was to become Cisco.

Among the children of Isaac and Eliza were: Lewis "Bud" Kistler (Eliza's son from a former marriage), Peter Christian "Pete" (1859-1942), Jesse, Al, Emma and Clara.

Pete Young moved to Illinois with his family when he was four years old. As a small boy he herded cattle over this territory before there was a railroad or town.

When Pete was fifteen years old he ran a team and slip scraper and helped build the railroad. Before there was a town they shelled by hand the little corn they grew and hauled it to Bement. There weren't any roads so they drove their wagons on high ground.

In the fall of 1885 Pete Young and Katie Stuckey (1868-1933) were united in marriage. They had one child, Edith Mae, born in 1886. They farmed and lived one mile southwest of Cisco at the same place the P. C. Barnhart family lives today. Pete ran an ice house in Cisco. He helped form the Cisco Grain Elevator and was on the board of directors.

Jesse Young married Eunice Wilson and they farmed the home place of Isaac and Eliza Young south of Cisco until they moved to Decatur in 1916.

They were the parents of five children: Mrs. Herb (Bliss) Ridgley, Cecil, Jessie, Mrs. Russell (Lucille) Martin, and Lewis. Jesse died in 1944 and Eunice in 1958.

Edith Young married William Reed Barnhart in 1908, and had three children: Mrs. William (LaVerne) Patrick, Mrs. Gerald (Katheryn) Sites and P. C. "Bud". Reed died in 1956 and Edith died in 1969.

P. C. Barnhart has farmed for over thirty years some of the same land his grandfather Peter C. Young farmed. For the past several years along with farming Bud has operated Bud's Barn Antique Store in Cisco.

The Donald Zindar Family

Donald and Ruth Zindar and daughters, Marilyn Dee and Donna Ruth, moved to a farm southwest of Cisco in 1946 from east of Monticello.

Don, the oldest of four children of Charles A. and Nina Jones Zindar, was born near White Heath. He graduated from White Heath Grade and Monticello Community High School. He is a member of the Farm Bureau.

Ruth, one of four children of Eugene and Jennie Rodgers Bell, was born near Seymour where her grandparents were early settlers. She graduated from Seymour Grade and Champaign High Schools and attended the University of Illinois.

The Zindars are active members of the Cisco United Methodist Church. She was active in 4-H Club work, Eastern Star, Cisco PTA, Woman's Club and Home Extension.

Their daughter, Marilyn Dee, is married to Robert Cannon and they live at Monticello. They have a daughter, Susan Dee. Marilyn is a registered nurse on the staff of the DeWitt-Piatt County Health Unit.

Their daughter, Donna, is married to Rolland Malone and they live at Maroa. Their children are Chris Allen, married to Janis Richards; and Candace Sue, married to Donald Benton. They have one son.

Remember When . . .

Did you know there was an ordinance years ago that prohibited driving a steam engine across the sidewalk unless boards were put down across the walk (or planked). Arthur Gisinger failed to plank the walk and was fined for driving his steam engine across the walk. He paid his fine and went out, put one wheel of the steam engine on the sidewalk and drove down the sidewalk. When he got to where he was going got off his steam engine, went back and paid another fine and said it was worth the fine not to have to drive down the middle of the muddy road.

lock, Charles Fradenburgh and Sam Clark. Missing are: Dee Leischner, Jack Drew, Hildred Webb, Othello Remmers, P. C. Barnhart, Florence Hoffman, Shirley Sievers and John Miller.

HAIL TO CISCO

Greetings from one oldtimer to another. Actually we got going a few years before you did. For us it was 1865. Day after day, every day since that time, we have searched the court house records to discover what deeds, mortgages, and other legal instruments have been recorded that day, who has divorced whom, who has gone bankrupt, who is being sued, what property is being foreclosed, etc. The list is a long one. We incorporate this voluminous material into our records and thus keep books on every piece of real estate in Piatt County. After more than a century our records have become priceless.

Some people don't understand why we do all this but the answer is simple. If you are buying a house you want to be sure the seller who expects to collect your hard earned money really owns the piece and that no one else has a claim against it. We type up a summary of all that has happened to the property for review by the attorney representing you, the buyer, and the attorney representing the lender in case you need a mortgage. If the title is good the sale goes through and the loan is made. If there are holes in the title the deal must be delayed until the holes are patched up. If it turns out they can't be patched, your attorney warns you and you call off the deal. At one time or another we suppose the security of every title in Piatt County has depended in part on the accuracy of our title searches.

Cisco and our company have been around for a long time but it has been a glorious experience. We have lived in the golden age of history for no other generation ever had it so good. We hope and expect that the next century will be even better.
